RED CHINA FIGHT IN UN

ALLEGHENY JURIST TOASTMASTER—Judge Samuel Weiss, of Allegheny County, was toastmaster at last night's $25-plate dinner. Shown seated is Judge Edward G. Bauer, of Westmoreland County. Over 520 persons attended.

Hundreds Pay $25 to Help Democrat Judges

An overflow crowd of 520 persons attended a $25-plate dinner held last night at Baldoc Hills Country Club near Irwin to help raise funds for the political campaigns of three Democratic judge candidates in Westmoreland County.

Sponsored by the Independent Citizens Committee of Westmoreland County, the banquet grossed a total of $13,000. After banquet expenses, the committee believes that approximately $10,000 will be realized for the Nov. 5 campaigns of Judges Edward G. Bauer and David H. Weiss and District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco, judge nominee.

Mayor David L. Lawrence, Pittsburgh, delivered the principal address last night after a stream of judges, attorney, politicians and others were introduced by the toastmaster, Judge Samuel Weiss, of Allegheny County.

Lawrence Speaks

In his brief address, Mayor Lawrence said he always had a "great respect for the judiciary of Westmoreland County. I know these three judge candidates personally and I know, too, that they are qualified men of the law."

He added that "these men all came through the crucible of the district attorney's office and are well trained for the office they now hold and for the office they are now seeking. I urge all of you to work hard come Nov. 5."

Others who delivered brief addresses were Judges Richard D. Laird, Charles D. Copeland, John M. O'Connell, Bauer and David Weiss, all of Westmoreland County; Sculco and J. H. Millstein, of Jeannette, banquet chairman.

In his address, Judge David Weiss, Monessen, who was appointed to a court vacancy last month and is seeking a full 10-year term in the general election, said:

"If I can add a little heart, a little understanding to the courts, I will be satisfied. That is my aim, my desire."

Bauer told the gathering that "I have tried all I could do to uphold the dignity of the courts and to interpret the law to the utmost."

He then called for support for

Car Slams into High Tension Utility Pole

A car driven by a Monessen woman slammed into a utility pole on the Monessen-Belle Vernon Rd., Route 906, last night, bringing down high tension wires on the machine, state police reported today. Seven persons walked away from the accident unhurt.

According to police, the crash occured about 8:15 p.m. when a car operated by Charles A. Cain, 18, of 101 Main St., Belle Vernon, sideswiped a car driven by Margaret Yuhasz, of 1226 Morgan Ave. Monessen.

The Yuhasz car went out of control and crashed into the pole.

Police said it was a "miracle" that Mrs. Yuhasz and her six passengers got out of the vehicle uninjured.

Cain was taken before Justice of the Peace Daniel Chew, Pricedale, and charged with reckless driving. He pleaded guilty and paid a $25 fine and $5 costs.

Power Failure Darkens School

A power failure darkened the west side of the Monessen Junior High School building for about two hours yesterday morning, but classes continued as usual.

A school spokesman said a fuse on the main line into the building blew out. It took West Penn Power Co. workmen about two hours to make emergency repairs.

Despite the darkened rooms, classes continued as usual. Instead of bells, the public address system was used to announce period change.

School officials said students cooperated fully during the power failure and they reported no disturbances.

Planning Group Is Worried by Apathy On Zoning Ordinance

The Monessen Planning Commission held the first in a series of public hearings last night to explain the proposed new zoning ordinance, but nobody seemed particularly interested.

Only four persons not associated with the Commission turned out for the hearing held in the Council chambers at the City Building. And three of them entered the session after Commission Vice-chairman William Pore had explained, in some detail, the intent and scope of the ordinance.

The apathy on the part of the public caused the Commission some concern and stimulated discussion on how to create more interest in the zoning ordinance.

Frank Ezerski, Commission solicitor, suggested that most Monessen residents have no idea what zoning area they will fall in and thus do not appreciate the restrictions which may apply to them.

Ad Suggested

"The public will probably remain uninterested until City Council begins action on the ordinance," said Ezerski. "Then we'll be deluged with last-minute complaints."

Mario Galuppo, a member of the Commission, stated that "maybe we should buy a full page advertisement in the newspaper and print a zoning map." The Commission took no action on the suggestion.

The first draft of the zoning ordinance has been on display for the past several weeks at the City Building.

Last night Pore explained the proposed ordinance, employing a series of maps. He pointed out that the city has been zoned into eight general areas and then outlined the restrictions for each.

Pore stated that the Commission "is open to suggestions and criticisms" before preparing a final draft of the ordinance which will then be submitted to council.

He said that all criticisms must also be submitted in writing so that the Commission might study them.

Ask Own Questions

The Commission members, themselves, posed most of the questions during the initial hearing. Two consultants from the Community Planning Services Inc., which helped prepare the ordinance, supplied most of the answers.

Asked if any residences would have to be removed to conform with the proposed ordinance, one of the consultants, Ed Forrest, replied:

"As a general rule, no existing residences will have to be removed even if they are located in commercial or industrial districts. However no enlargement or reconstruction will be permitted on these non-conforming residences. In the event, 50 per cent of a building is destroyed by fire, it may be replaced."

Forrest said commercial and industrial buildings — including "corner grocery stores" — which are located in residential districts will definitely be subject to removal under the ordinance. Owners of these buildings will be given

The City believes this improvement will increase the parking capacity of the lot.

Doctor's Office, Drug Store Are Broken into

Burglars broke into a physician's office and a drug store in the Park Plan shopping center sometime during the night, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka reported.

The burglars first broke into the office of Dr. Eugene O'Leary and then entered the adjoining Central Pharmacy.

Police said nothing was taken at the office but the burglars took an estimated 200 cartons of cigarettes, 15 boxes of cigars, four cameras and several watches from the drug store.

Police said entry to the office was made by breaking a rear window. Once inside the burglars broke a glass door connecting the office and the pharmacy owned by Joseph Weiss.

Doris Madlenk, Belle Vernon, Dr. O'Leary's receptionist, reported the matter to police when she opened office this morning at 8:15.

Lts. Joseph Reday and James Horan are investigating.

Fred Owsiany Gets Promotion

Fred Anthony Owsiany, of 1 Pleasant Dr., Monessen, has been promoted to supervisor of payroll at Pittsburgh Steel's Monessen works, it was announced today.

In his new position, Owsiany will supervise payroll clerks in preparing the Monessen works payroll.

Owsiany joined Pittsburgh Steel Co. on Feb. 1, 1941 as a messenger. In May, 1942, he was made a payroll clerk, stepping up to cost and inventory clerk in November, 1944.

In December, 1945, Owsiany was promoted to payroll clerk supervisor. In August, 1955, he was named assistant supervisor of payroll, the position he held until his new promotion.

Owsiany and his wife, Margaret, have a son, Kevin Francis.

Democrats Lead In Registration

Final new registration figures released today showed Westmoreland County Democrats ahead of the Republicans by a 1,936 margin.

The totals at the closing of the registration books Monday showed the Democrats with 3,007 new registrations to 1,071 for the Republicans, according to a report by Robert P. DeLotto, chief registrar.

The report indicated that 25 independent and non-partisan voters were also registered. About 1,000 changes of address were made. DeLotto reported that the complete overall count will be started this week and released for publication next week.

Court Orders Delay in Arlington Integration

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UP) — Federal District Judge Albert V. Bryan today postponed the deadline for admitting seven Negro children to all-white Arlington County schools.

He had originally ordered their admission by next Monday. The Arlington School Board asked for a stay of his order while it appeals the ruling to the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Bryan agreed.

He said that if the court of appeals should reverse him "there would be a tremendous injury not only to the litigants but to persons not parties" if a stay were not allowed at this time.

The judge emphasized that he still believes the Negroes cannot legally be banned from white schools, but added "I cannot say that another court would not have a different opinion."

Long Arguments

Bryan acted after an hour of arguments by attorneys for the Arlington School Board, which requested the stay, and those for the Negro parents involved in the case, who opposed it.

Arlington attorney Frank L. Balls and James H. Simmonds said their sole interest is in keeping the county schools open. They pointed out that under 1956 Virginia statutes county schools will have to close "the minute a Negro pupil is admitted." If the local community is permitted to resume operation, state funds are denied.

Negro attorneys Oliver Hill of Richmond and Edwin C. Brown of Arlington charged that the board and the state are merely engaged in another delaying action.

"They only want to delay things until the Legislature can dot a few more I's and cross a few more T's so they can say there is something else to be litigated," Hill said.

State Expected To Rule Today On Annexation

The state Council of Education was expected to rule today on the annexation dispute between the Monessen and Rostraver Twp. school districts.

The Council, meeting in Harrisburg, will act on the basis of arguments presented by both sides last June 19.

Approximately 70 students will be affected by the decision. They are currently attending Rostraver schools even though they reside within the Monessen city limits.

The controversy developed in 1955 when two parts of the township were annexed by the city.

However the state Council of Education refused to separate the two areas from the Rostraver school district after the latter appealed on grounds of hardship.

The township has contended that it will lose more than $30,000 in tax revenue if the annexed areas are taken away. That will require a six mill increase in real estate taxes to meet financial obligations, Rostraver authorities contend.

Residents in the annexed areas have petitioned the council at their own expense in each of the past two years to make them part of the Monessen school district.

Van Voorhis Man Arrested

A 23-year-old Van Voorhis man was arrested by state police yesterday on suspicion of armed robbery.

Alvin Berkich was identified as the man who held up the Dipsy Doodle Bar on Route 31, west of Monongahela, last Thursday. The identification was made by Evelyn Taylor, 408 Castner St., Donora, who was alone in the establishment when it was robbed of approximately $45.

Berkich, who was arrested at his home, has been committed to Washington County jail.

State to Survey Cemetery Hill Road

The state Highway Department disclosed today that engineering studies are now being prepared for Route 88 between Charleroi and Monongahela.

These studies will include the portion of that route known at Cemetery Hill. It is a steep, twisting decline into Monongahela which has been the scene of many serious auto accidents in recent years.

Sewage Disposal Plant Discussion

Monessen's Planning Commission and Municipal Authority will meet jointly next Tuesday at the City Building beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Plans for a proposed sewage disposal plant will be discussed, it was reported.

India Launches Drive; U. S. to Oppose Move

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — India, with full Soviet support, opened a formal drive today to oust Nationalist China from the United Nations and seat Red China in its place.

The United States and its allies steeled themselves to beat down the maneuver as they have in past years.

India was expected to demand at the first session of the Steering Committee that the issue be placed on the General Assembly agenda for a full-dress debate.

The United States planned to counter the demand with a resolution declaring that the assembly decides "not to consider" the Chinese issue at this session.

This tactic was successful last year and a U.S. spokesman said his delegation had "high hopes" it would win again.

To Fight Proposal

He said the proposal to seat Red China would be opposed "as vigorously as in the past — and a little bit more."

Because of the projected Indian move, the Soviet Union withheld its customary objections to the presence of the Formosa representatives when the assembly opened its 12th annual session Tuesday.

The assembly elected Sir Leslie Knox Munro of New Zealand as its president following a dramatic, last-minute withdrawal announced from the rostrum by Foreign Minister Charles Malik of Lebanon. He had waged a strong campaign against the bushy-browed New Zealander.

The opening session, remarkably free of political fireworks, also elected newly - independent Malaya as the 82nd member of the United Nations, chose the chairmen of the seven standing committees and adjourned until today.

The schedule called for election of eight vice presidents.

Charge Principal Called Students 'Reds, Hoodlums'

Derry Twp. school directors today investigated a charge that supervising principal M. J. Kurtz referred to a group of students as "Communists and hoodlums."

The charge was made at a School Board meeting this week by a delegation of 14 persons from New Derry.

Mrs. Eva Short, spokesman for the group, said that Kurtz also referred to the students' parents as "stupid". She complained that the principal "acted like a maniac" when children and parents criticized the school bus transportation program.

Kurtz denied all charges.

The next meeting of the Derry Joint School Board will be held on Oct. 14, at which time a report on the charges will probably be submitted.

Food Distribution

Surplus food will be distributed tomorrow from 1 to 3 p. m. to eligible persons at the CIO Building, Monessen.

Bangkok Wants Ousted Premier To Come Home

BANGKOK, Thailand (UP) — Marshal Sarit Thanarat, army chief of staff who seized power in Thailand, today invited deposed Premier Pibul Songgram to come out of hiding and live "happily" in Thailand.

Sarit overthrew the government in a bloodless pre-dawn coup Tuesday after months of dissension among cabinet ministers and dissatisfaction by the people with the premier who has been a political strongman for nearly a generation.

Pibul fled the capital and ignored appeals by Bangkok radio to return.

Sarit told a news conference he "regretted" that the former premier had not come out of hiding and said, "We all respect him and want him to stay in the country happily. When he comes back, I will salute him and beg him to stay wherever he likes."

GOP Judge Nominees Announce Platform

The three Republican nominees for Westmoreland County Common Pleas Court in the Nov. 5 general election today announced their platform.

In a joint statement, Robert H. Rial, Avra N. Pershing Jr., and Willis E. Topper pledged to remove county courts from "all political influence which can so easily degrade and corrupt the proper administration of justice."

"The people of Westmoreland County have become alarmed with the increasing domination of the county government by a partisan clique operating in the name of the Democratic party," the statement said.

The three GOP candidates said that "this domination has involved the judiciary to the extent that judicial candidates have been selected by a system of promotion."

"Nothing destroys the confidence in the courts more than for its judges to actively participate in partisan politics," the statement continued. "Good government must be government of the people, by the people and for the people, and not of, by and for any political boss or special interests.

"As judicial candidates, we are dedicated to the cause of good government," the Republican candidate said.

Rial, Pershing and Topper pledged themselves to the following platform.

"1. To administer justice fairly —according to law and irrespective of race, color, creed or political affiliation.

"2. To administer justice speedily and promptly.

"3. To administer justice mercifully — tempering justice with mercy but without regard to political expediency.

"4. To remove from the arena of the courts all political influence which can so easily degrade

West Newton Pair Catches Auto Thief

A West Newton father and his son teamed up yesterday to recover the family car which had been stolen earlier in the day.

But it required a little "luck" and a wild 70-mile an hour chase through a section of Pittsburgh to get the auto back.

William Simon, 21, and his father, John, of 300 Pittsburgh St., West Newton, had to roar through four stop signs and three red lights in a borrowed car before apprehending the thief.

The wild incident started quietly enough yesterday when young Simon, a former West Newton High football player, travelled to Pittsburgh in the family car to register for classes at the University of Pittsburgh.

The car was stolen from in front of the Phipps Conservatory about 4:30 p.m. The youth telephoned his father, who promptly borrowed a neighbor's car and headed for Pittsburgh.

Together the Simons made out a report to police at Oakland. They were en route home when they suddenly spotted the stolen car near the Glenwood Bridge about 7 p.m.

The Simons gave chase, pushing their borrowed car up to 70 miles an hour. During the race, young Simon waived to a passing police car to join in the pursuit.

Finally the stolen car was forced to the curb on Brown's Hill Road in Squirrel Hill.

Police, who arrived moments later, identified the driver as Russell Keener, 21, of 227 East Ninth St., Homestead. He told authorities he was headed home during the chase.

Principal Dies In Accident at School Initiation

UTICA, Kan. UP—W. H. Salee, 55, a popular high school principal was accidentaly strangled during a Halloween-type freshman initiation in an abandoned farmhouse near here.

Harold Mellies, Ness County sheriff, said an autopsy on Salee showed his death Monday night was caused by strangulation.

Salee had agreed to stand with a noose under his arm in a darkened room while freshman students, who were blindfolded, were led to him. As their blindfolds were removed, a light flashed on Salee's face, daubed with catsup and burnt cork.

Mrs. Betty Stevens, a teacher and senior class sponsor, said Salee failed to respond after eight of the 23 freshmen had been shown the stunt. Rushed to Ness County hospital, he was dead on arrival.

Mrs. Stevens said the senior class, sponsors of the annual supervised initiation party, originally had planned to use a dummy for the act but that Salee had insisted on participating.

Mellies theorized that Salee might have fainted from standing too long. Although the rope had been tied around his chest, officers said the rope had become looped around his neck, possibly when he stumbled on some trash in the house.

Uniontown Ups Parking Fees

Uniontown is the latest district municipality to hike the price of its downtown parking.

The Uniontown city council last night approved the purchase of between 500 and 550 new parking meters. A total of 135 of the new meters will charge five cents for a half hour of parking.

These meters will be located in the business section and will double the price of parking in that area. The other new meters, to be situated in the outer zones, will continue to charge a nickel for a full hour.

Confessed Slayer Reads Bible Aloud

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — Mrs. Helen Hatcher, 45, confessed slayer of an Oliphant man, reads the Bible aloud and sings hymns to other inmates at the Fayette County jail "to keep up my morale."

Mrs. Hatcher, who pleaded guilty to the murder of Elliott Chandler, last July 10, is confined in a third-floor cell. Her voice carries to other inmates as she reads the Bible and sings hymns, jail officials said.

Her degree of guilt will be determined at a hearing Sept. 26.

Stephen Sinchak, real estate man, suggested that the Commission provide more areas for commercial uses as a convenience to residents. He added that drinking establishments should be permitted in the hill district, "rather than concentrating them downtown."

Thorofare Market

John Scott, Third St., addressed the Commission and recommended that efforts be made to eliminate as many drinking establishments as possible. He also asked that sub-standard housing be be torn down as soon as possible.

George Cieply, manager of the city's Chamber of Commerce, asked if regulations governing three proposed shopping centers would affect the Thorofare Market now located in the Park Plan.

Cieply said the existing market was larger than the regulations set forth in the ordinance.

"Existing structures of this type are not subject to removal," explained Forrest. "However no new commercial buildings will be permitted unless they meet specifications of the ordinance."

The next public hearing of the Commission will be held a week from today at 7 p. m. in the Council chambers.

When the ordinance is finally submitted to Council, that body will hold additional hearings before approving or disapproving the measure.

Members of the Commission present for last night's meeting were Pore, Galuppo, Charles Hagerstrand and Thomas Preston. Representing the Community Planning Service were Forrest and Robert Way.

Police Investigating Phone Cable Cutting

CLEVELAND (UP) — Police today investigated the cutting of telephone cables as negotiations resumed in an effort to settle the strike against the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Federal Mediator Thomas Robertson called for another bargaining talk at 10 a. m. this morning between representatives of the company and the Communications Workers of America in an attempt to settle differences in the two day old strike.

Local spokesmen for the union, however, said the state's 18,000 idled workers will probably not return to their jobs unless agreement is reached in New York.

Police were called to the Glenville exchange Tuesday night to maintain order after a series of disturbances were reported.

A women employe was reported not allowed to leave the building and a truck was reported refused entrance to the exchange. Police said all was quiet when they arrived.

In Columbus, Ohio Bell was held in "minor technical violation" Tuesday of the state's law governing the work of women and minors.

The report was made by inspectors of the Ohio Industrial Commission who checked on a report that the company was working women more than the limited nine hours per day.

Joe L. Hardy, chief of the commission's division for women and minors, said no citation would be issued, however, since the company agreed to keep a careful check on overtime work.

At Solon near here, building tradesmen resumed work at Western Electric Company's new warehouse and at the Beacon Exchange of Ohio Bell. CWA officials Tuesday agreed to let them pass through picket lines.

The union and Ohio Bell are deadlocked over wages, length of contract and fringe benefits.

To Delay Work on Washington School

Architect Assures School Board Wall Is in no Immediate Danger

Work on the reconstruction of a wall in the Washington School building will be delayed until the end of the current school year, it was decided by the Monessen School Board last night.

A bid of $30,850 was accepted from Haury's Construction Co., Monessen, with the work to start June 1, 1958.

This was approved following a report of H. Ernest Clark, architect, who stated that following a careful examination he could find no immediate danger of any wall failure.

Clark's report stated that all rooms on the west side of the building would have to be vacated during the entire job and a section of school property would have to be barricaded to avoid injury to persons.

Two Bids Submitted

He said that the extremely bad parts of the wall failure were repaired this summer, and there is no reason why the proposed permanent work cannot be done when school vacation begins next summer.

The board also acted on the following items:

Hirings: Approved teaching contracts at starting salaries of $3,400 of the following secondary teachers. Leroy James Holman, Mrs. Cecelia Kasper and Mrs. Miriam Johnson.

Salary Boosts: To John DeMillion, physical education teacher, $200 yearly for receiving his master's degree in education from Pitt.

Insurance: Authorized the renewal of fire insurance policies under a five year plan with each insurance agency in Monessen receiving a proportionate amount of coverage.

Fund Transfer: Authorized the transfer of $37,985 from the general fund to the sinking fund to meet bond requirements for September, October and November.

Recreation Funds: Authorized the payment of $11,000 as the School District's share for community recreation.

Adult Education Classes: Approved adult distributive education classes for five Wednesday evenings, starting Oct. 2 Approved vocational evening classes for Mondays and Wednesdays to start Monday, Sept. 23. Approved adult sewing classes on Mondays through Fridays for 15 weeks, with registration to be held Monday, Sept. 23. A new teacher will be required since Mrs. Armand Niccolai, who handled the classes in previous years, will be teaching in day classes. Approved an adult nurses training class to meet twice weekly.

Resignation: Accepted resignation of Mrs. Patricia Ann Gorman.

Applications: Acknowledged and filed applications from Mrs. Concetta Sagona, Monessen, for position as cafeteria worker and Mrs. Leona Gwynn, California, for position as teacher in elementary schools.

Activity. Pay:. Approved a change in the policy of paying for extra activities in order to facilitate ease in making payroll adjustments on a newly-acquired accounting machine.

Student Driving: Acknowledged receipt of notice from Monessen City Council that student drivers refrain from using Marion Ave. between Rostraver and Cross streets for practice area. Council had informed the School District it would help prepare another area if the district desired.

Auditorium: Approved rental of the High School auditorium by the Boy's Brigade for variety show to be held Wednesday, Oct. 9.

Attending were President John Lancas, John Kossar, Dr. Joseph Dudas, Nicholas Cullen, Solicitor Dan Myshin and School Superintendent Dr. Joseph Pallone.

Pallone Urging Patience Over Bus Scheduling

Parents of children using school buses in Monessen have been asked to be patient with some minor inconveniences during a brief period of adjustment.

Dr. Joseph Pallone, school superintendent, told the Monessen School Board last night he is doing all in his power to smooth out some of the rough spots in the bus schedules.

He outlined a plan whereby students will be given cards which will assign them to specific buses and that, because of the crowded conditions of some buses, students will not be permitted to board buses unless they are carrying the proper card.

Another bus is being added to the program in the near future, Dr. Pallone said, and when that is accomplished much of the present confusion will be eliminated.

"Meanwhile," Dr. Pallone stated, "we would appreciate parents being a little more patient."

"There will be buses for all students," he added. "If we don't have enough we will get them."

Rotary Sees Film At Noon Meeting

Monessen Rotarians saw a film titled "Big Saul" at the noon meeting yesterday at Johnson's. Harvey Seymour was program chairman.

Guests attending were Walter Murphy along with Ted Hindman, Joe Bielski and Bob Hoehl of Charleroi.

County Controller Moved Temporarily

Legion Resolution On Status of Forces

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—A resolution condemning the nation's controversial status of forces agreements was expected to be offered during today's session of the annual American Legion convention.

The legion has opposed the agreements, which spell out procedures for trial of American servicemen charged with off-duty offenses on foreign soil.

Two of the nation's top generals took opposite stands on the agreements in speeches to the convention Tuesday.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former supreme commander of NATO forces and now president of the American Red Cross, favored the agreements.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, former commander in chief of the United Nations forces in Korea and now president of The Citadel, strongly opposed them.

Gruenther told the 3,113 delegates that our willingness to permit the civil trial in foreign countries of servicemen charged with off-duty offenses is "an integral part of our alliance concept."

Gruenther said that during his 3½ years in France "I never ran into a case where a GI failed to get justice."

Clark, however, said he was in sympathy with the legion's opposition to the agreements.

He said he believed they were wrong when the State Department first worked them out without consulting the military commanders involved.

Clark criticized handling of the Korean War where "we fought with our hands behind our back If another war is essential, let's fight it with every means at our command," he said.

He said that if he had had the authority he would have bombed Manchuria and North China instead of restricting operations at the Yalu River.

"We should have, in my opinion, stepped out and won that war," he said. "But the signals were called in Washington and we were prevented from winning that war as I knew we could have done."

Federal Credit Representatives at Bedford Springs

Two representatives of the Pittsburgh Steel Federal Credit Union attended the third annual state Credit Union League Management Conference at Bedford Springs last week.

They were William Read, treasurer, and Joseph Lynch, assistant treasurer.

The principal speaker at the conference, attended by 150 officers representing 60 credit union, was A. H. Reede, an instructor at Penn State University.

He spoke on "Our Expanding Economy" predicting what may be expected in the next 20 years, not only in credit union work but in population, education and the purchasing value of the dollar.

Read, one of the Monessen delegates, has been a member of the state credit union committee for the past three years.

Kromer to Head Campaign for County Democrats

Westmoreland County Democrats today announced that Jay W. Kromer has been appointed to serve as general chairman for the Nov. 5 general election campaign.

Kromer, a county commissioner, has been chairman of the Democratic Party the past 10 years. He lives in Mt. Pleasant.

The organization also announced that Robert P. DeLotto, New Kensington, will serve as publicity director for the campaign. DeLotto presently is in charge of the county's vote registration office.

In a release today, the Democrats said:

"The Democratic candidates and the Democratic Party in Westmoreland County have enviable records. It will be the party's intention during the campaign to report on this record — and brought to the attention of the voters."

The slogan adopted for the campaign is:

"The Party for You, Not Just a Few."

Fayette Judge Is Back to Work

Fayette County Judge S. John Morrow returned to his office yesterday for the first time since last June when he suffered an ear infection.

Judge Morrow said he will spend about an hour a day at his office for the time being. He said he will assume full duties of the bench as soon as his physician permits.

Vandals Rip Up Theatre

One of the worst cases of vandalism in Charleroi history occurred Sunday night at the Coyle Theatre when seats were slashed and ladies rest room lounges wrecked by knives.

The destruction was discovered yesterday morning by Mrs. Revina Paglia, caretaker. It is believed the damage was done durling the last show late Sunday night.

State and Charleroi police, who have combined to investigate the destruction, reported that seats in the forward section of the theatre were cut to ribbons and sofas and chairs slashed in the lounges.

Seats Ripped Open

In the third row of seats on the main floor, the vandals ripped open leather seats and tore out the padding. Mrs. Paglia said pieces of leather and padding were strewn about the theatre.

A reward of $50 has been offered by the theatre for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the "hoodlums," Chief of Police Romeo Ross said yesterday. Damage was estimated at "over $1,000" by Robert S. Coyle, owner.

Despite the damage, the theatre opened for business as scheduled yesterday afternoon.

Rudy Benedetti was named chairman of the nominating committee to plan the election of officers.

The Kiwanians also made plans to assist at the Midget Football games on Sept. 24 at Monessen High School stadium.

W. R. H. Patterson outlined plans for the coming state convention to be held in Pittsburgh beginning Oct. 6.

Phone Talks Continuing Today

NEW YORK (UP)—A federal mediator called on negotiators to reappraise their positions today in the three-day strike of telephone equipment installers that has partially disrupted long-distance service across the nation.

Walter Maggiolo of the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service meet again with representatives of the striking Communications Workers of America and the Western Electric Co., in an effort to break the deadlock.

At the end of a negotiations session Tuesday, Maggiolo reported "no significant change" in the positions of either the company or the union. He then urged both sides to reappraise their position.

About 23,800 telephone equipment installers went on strike at 6 a.m. Monday to back demands for a wage increase and improved fringe benefits. An estimated 150,000 non-striking telephone operators, members of the CWA, have refused to cross picket lines set up by the equipment installers.

Only minor delays have been reported in long-distance service, however. Operators crossing picket lines have been supplemented by supervisory personnel, pressed into switchboard service at the outset of the strike.

Local service has been virtually unaffected by the strike.

The strike's greatest impact was on communications projects in the 44 states where the striking installers are employed. Work has been halted on an estimated 9,000 projects, including the new nationwide long-distance automatic dial system.

A Large Factor in Westmoreland Politics

THE DEATH of William P. Nowe of New Kensington in an automobile collision Monday inevitably is calling public attention once more to the strange state of political affairs that has prevailed in Westmoreland County for a couple of decades.

Many people who observe county politics closely have been aware on numerous occasions that some individuals of influence in the Republican party have been seemingly content to have their party play the role of doormat for the Democratic courthouse machine.

Mr. Nowe was conspicuous among these individuals. Time after time the Republican faction of which he was the acknowledged leader turned in for some of the prominent figures of the Democratic machine.

Just this year, to cite the latest example, the Nowe group was openly active during the Republican primary on behalf of Judge Edward G. Bauer, a Democrat who is one of the most unethically partisan judges in the history of the county. The Nowe forces failed — and rather abjectly — to win a Republican nomination for Judge Bauer, which did credit to the judgment of the Republican voters. But there was no doubt that in the general election campaign Mr. Nowe and his followers would have continued their strenuous efforts for Judge Bauer and probably for some of the other Democratic machine candidates.

* * *

IT IS, of course, any citizen's privilege to support whomever he pleases for public office. And this paper will be the last to discourage the crossing of party lines, particularly where judicial offices are involved since these offices by their very nature call for elimination of party considerations so far as possible.

But Bill Nowe was no political independent. Indeed, he could accurately have been described as a professional politician. As such, he consistently claimed — and undoubtedly had — great influence in the Republican party. So we can be sure that the long tie-up between his Republican faction and the Democratic courthouse machine, far from being an exercise in political independence, was a marriage of convenience for mutual advantage. And as such, it merited — and still does — the contempt of those citizens of both parties who have some respect for the two-party system and appreciate the contribution it can make to good government.

We have asserted here many times the conviction that most of the aberrations in Westmoreland County's political life, such as the vote frauds and the racketeering and corruption, could be corrected through the normal functioning of the two-party system. But this system cannot function normally so long as professed leaders of the parties are collaborating, not on a basis of principle, but in order to serve their own ends whatever these may be.

* * *

WHAT WILL happen in county politics now that an accident has removed part of the axis between a Republican faction and the Democratic machine we wouldn't know. There may or may not be somebody to carry on this interesting relationship which has been one of the controlling factors in Westmoreland affairs for so many years.

But in our view the voters of both parties will be well advised at every opportunity to eliminate leaders who play this kind of game. Such an opportunity is presented in the candidacy of Judge Bauer, who, like Mr. Nowe, asserts leadership in one party while playing cozy behind the scenes with elements of the opposition.

The playing of this game over the years has undoubtedly brought substantial political rewards to some individuals, Judge Bauer being one of the more prominent. But it has given Westmoreland County more rotten government than any American community deserves to have.

A Community Need

A COMMITTEE of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce is now conducting the annual campaign for new members of the Chamber, hoping to reach the magic number of 500. Everyone who has Monessen's betterment at heart will hope this effort succeeds.

It is difficult to assess the real value of an active Chamber of Commerce in a community because it does so many different kinds of things. But most people in Monessen are well aware, we believe, that many of the good things that have been happening in this city in recent years might not have happened at all or would not be progressing so well without the Chamber's interest and support.

While the Chamber membership consists mainly of business, professional and industrial people, the cause it serves is of concern to everybody. Those who are eligible should consider it an honor and a privilege to support the Chamber's work with their dues and their influence.

Negroes Sold Their Votes To Faubus

(Editor's Note: While Drew Pearson is touring the Mediterranean, his column is written by his junior partner.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Gov. Orval Faubus, who blew up the segregation storm in Arkansas, was helped into office by Negroes who sold their vote.

An overwhelming majority of the 65,000 Negroes who voted in the 1954 Arkansas primary, cast their ballots for Faubus. This gave him more than the 5,000-vote margin by which he defeated ex-Gov. Francis Cherry.

Evidence has now come to light that the Faubus forces paid cash on the barrelhead for Negro votes. This has stirred Mrs. L. C. Bates, who heads the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Arkansas, to preach repentance to her people.

"It is unfortunate that Negroes put Faubus in office," she told this column. "We hope the Negro won't be so quick to sell his vote in the future. We believe the Negro has been convinced his constitutional rights are more valuable than a few tainted dollars. It is time for Negro voters to stop being misled by professional exploiters. The day of vote-selling has passed."

She knew several Negroes who were paid to vote for Faubus and Negro leaders who took money to campaign for him, Mrs. Bates said. This was confirmed by I. S. McClinton, president of the Arkansas Democratic Voters Association, and other responsible Negro leaders. This column also talked to Negroes who acknowledged they had accepted "expense money" from the Faubus forces.

The Rev. W. H. Hall, who directed Faubus' campaign among the colored people, denied receiving more than a "nominal sum."

"No more than $500 passed through my hands, counting what I got," he told this column. Most of the money went to car-owners to haul voters to the polls, he said.

Queen Needn't Stretch

On secret State Department orders, Chrysler engineers are altering the limousines Queen Elizabeth will use in America. The problem is to jack up the back seats without hoisting her feet off the floor.

It will take two parade limousines to keep up with the Queen. These will be identical, fawn-colored chryslers. While one is delivering her to her plane, the other will be waiting at the next airport for her arrival.

So that the Queen and public can get a better view of each other, the State Department ordered the back seats raised four inches. This caused consternation, however, over whether Her Royal Highness' legs might be left dangling.

Chrysler engineers, who are working on such precision projects as the Jupiter guided missile, got out their slide rules and calculated Queen Elizabeth's measurements from her pictures. Then they hunted up a girl with the same specifications.

The model tried out the accentuated seats, couldn't touch the floor. Result: engineers are now elevating the floor.

Note: every move the Queen is expected to make in America has been carefully rehearsed with stopwatches. Her cavalcade will slow down for crowds, speed up as the spectators thin out. This should take her through cities, the timekeepers figure, at about the same rate as the average driver who obeys the traffic laws.

Weary but Wise

Dress-shop diplomat Max Gluck, new Ambassador to Ceylon who couldn't name that country's prime minister, took such a cram course on Ceylon that he left for his post last week in a state of "extreme exhaustion."

He even carried a doctor's certificate to prove it. However, its purpose wasn't to impress the Ceylonese with how hard he'd studied but to ward off attorneys who wanted his deposition in a $185,000 lawsuit.

The suit was filed by M. J. Spiegel, Chicago businessman, who charged that Gluck had neglected to make the final payment on a chainstore purchase.

The doctor declared Gluck was so worn out from State Department briefings that it would be "dangerous" for him to testify. Spiegel's attorneys offered to postpone the desposition and keep Gluck in this country by court order until his health improved. Thereupon the harassed Ambassador decided he felt well enough to answer a few questions.

He spent the morning under cross-examination, but failed to show up for the afternoon session. He sent word to Judge Saul Strert of the New York County Supreme Court that he was too ill to continue.

The Judge finally let Gluck, presumably still exhausted, take off for Ceylon without completing his deposition.

Europe: Prosperity and Inflation

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

BONN — You don't feel any "different" when you get to Western Europe. It's just like home — inflation everywhere.

At the last White House press conference I attended in Washington President Eisenhower conceded that continuing inflation — the rising cost of nearly everything — was the nation's "major internal problem."

Mr. Drummond

When my trans - Atlantic airliner paused at the London Airport before hurrying on to Dusseldorf, the British newspapers were worrying about the high interest rates and the summer-long drain on the gold and dollar reserves of the pound sterling.

And here in Bonn Chancellor Adenauer's affable, tough-minded, free-enterprise Economic Minister, Ludwig Erhard, who even looks quite a little like George Humphrey, is anxiously trying to keep a booming-zooming German economy from rocketing off the rails.

Affects NATO Allies

Just as the "major internal problem" facing the United States is inflation, so the major internal problem of the whole NATO alliance is inflation.

It is even a wider problem than this. It extends to the whole free world: interest rates on tight money are rising everywhere. The reason is no cause for dismay: it is only the unchecked consequences which are cause of grave anxiety. The reason is that huge borrowing demands, generated by a world-wide investment boom, have outstripped the supply of saving in country after country.

This tremendous investment boom is taking place throughout the great industrialized nations like the U. S., Britain, Germany and France which are modernizing and improving their productive facilities. It is also taking place in the once dormant, now aroused but underdeveloped countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America, many of which are seeking to achieve in a decade what it took the old nations a century to do.

But the economic outlook of the Western Alliance is basically healthy. Like the United States, the governments of most of the Western European countries are fortunately facing the problems of prosperity, not the problems of depression. Everyone of them is enjoying a full employment economy. Few workers are idle anywhere and here in Germany the post-way recovery is phenomenal.

Special Problems

Western Europe's currency crisis comes from special problems. The financial burden of France's military costs in Algeria together with the investment boom produced the inflationary pressures that forced the recent 20 per cent devaluation of the franc. Although British domestic production is thriving — there are more jobs than there are workers to fill them — British industry is not yet efficient enough to compete as effectively as it must in the dollar market.

Because of its unprecedented economic resurgence, Germany's Deutsche mark may be somewhat under-valued in the world market. But here again, while Germany has a too favorable — a distorted — trade balance with every country of Western Europe, it is in deficit to the dollar.

Now that the elections are over, the hope is that Germany will extend further credit to France, will encourage the export of capital and will open its own markets to freer competition with foreign agriculture. The need is for Germany to buy more abroad and to send more capital abroad, which the Germans are already beginning to do.

Britain Important

The British position is improving. For the year ending this midsummer Britain earned a surplus of about $25,000,000 in her overseas payments. This was much better than expected earlier in view of the Suez crisis which distorted many elements of the British economy. The prospects are for further gains. Britain is making genuine headway in its exports to the U. S. They are up at least 10 per cent over a year ago and this persuades Threadneedle Street that the sterling-dollar exchange does not need readjusting.

This is what an American reporter finds upon instant arrival across the Atlantic. If, like the U. S., Western Europe can lick the problems of prosperity, it will have the resources to keep the Western Alliance economically and militarily strong.

How Some American Towns Were Named

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) —The parade of place names across America includes such terror and majesty as Hatteras, Monongahela, Rappahannock, Susquehanna, Chattahoochee, Painted Desert, and Yosemite—but in the line of march there is humor and charm also.

Where else in the world can you find such town names as Slap Out, Ala., Bone Gap, Ill., Protection, Kan., Hambone, Calif., Cornucopia, Wis., Far Rockaway, N.Y., Jigger, La., and Chilly, Idaho?

Where else, for that matter, can you find people with such magnificent names as Quo Vadis Marie McGinnis, Naughtybird Kirksey, Ecceliomo Thrapp, and Spengler Arlington Brough, of Filley, Neb.?

How Names Originate

When the poet wrote "Bury my Heart in Painted Post," he was speaking of a New York town. And with us today we have Caleb D. Hammond, the big map and atlas man, with some inside dope from his research department about how various town names got that way.

Take Esdaile, Wis., for instance. Hammond says this town near the Mississippi River is at the foot of an S-shaped valley, or dale, and hence the name — although how "Dale" became "Daile" is a hazy point.

The rather peculiar addition to spelling things backward shows up in such as Etlah, Mo., Egnar, Colo., and Enola, Ark. Early settlers who found the Missouri spot a good stopping place allegedly gave it the reverse spelling of the German word "halte."

Names In Reverse

Egnar originally was "range," but there were so many other places of that name that the city fathers about-faced the spelling. As for Enola, a local legend is that an early-day heartsick widower carved the word "alone" on a board and it later was read backward.

Tensed, Idaho, sounds as if it may have been founded on a nervous note. But no—the original name was De Smet. Because of a duplicate name in the state, the Post Office Department requested a change. The town fathers reversed the spelling into "Temsed," but in Washington—where conditions often are all tensed up—a mistake in copying gave the place its taut name.

Then, there are such grasp-at-straws places as Chilly, Idaho, and Slap Out, Ala. A meeting to choose a name for the Idaho town was getting nowhere until a late arrival announced it was chilly outside. A similar meeting in Alabama was about to adjourn, "Slap Out" of ideas, according to Hammond, when one member suggested they give up and name the burg for the condition that prevailed at the naming session.

Pile of Bones

Bone Gap, Ill., was named for piles of bones found in an Indian tribal battleground, and Protection, Kan., got its name from a big bluff northwest of town which was used as a fort protecting against Indians.

Jigger, La., got its name when the postmaster submitted a 25-name list to Washington and included the nickname of his five-year-old son—who was a tiny lad and thus was called a Jigger.

Modern Husbands Help in Decorating

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) —Now dad usually helps choose the carpet to go with the carpet slippers.

An increasing number of husbands join with their wives in deciding household decorating schemes, and help shop for new furniture, draperies and floor coverings, says Robert Elton, who for eight years has run the only National Home Furnishings show open to the public.

Gay Pauley

Elton at present is overseeing 80 thousand feet of displays, from 160 exhibitors, at the annual event in the New York Coliseum.

"At the last show, we found that 32 per cent of our audience was married. It no longer is a case of Pop just paying the bills. Husbands and wives shop together... many of them bring their kids to this show. We had 837 children last Sunday."

Couples Seek Ideas

"Some of the couples are looking for ideas to put to immediate use," said Elton. "Others are just doing wishful thinking together."

"Elton predicted part of the wishful - thinking concerned indoor-outdoor living.

"We've built much of the show around that idea... it is the future way of life," he said.

Show dining rooms open onto patios, bedrooms onto courts or gardens, with the decorating scheme carried outside. Or, the outdoors is simulated with garden or scenic murals. Robert S. Malkin, a landscape artist, displayed a "garden for the small home owner" — with terracing, a black and white color scheme and lily pond all in a 36 by 80 feet area.

"Ideal for the city home," said a show guide.

"What size city?" asked a skeptic who obviously lived in space-hungry New York.

Blends New Colors

The show indicated that orange, gold, yellow and white—often all used together—are the coming colors. Traditional furnishings pushed modern into the background.

"We'll use more antiques," said Elton. "It is all part of the new elegance in the home."

Other highlights of the show:

Predominance of hand surface floor coverings, including vinyl tile. Usually it is white, but sometimes is combined with ceramic inlay in intricate patterns.

A cocktail table, which proved this item of furniture has been around a while. The table, a ceramic in hexagonal shape, is Persian, and 2,000 years old.

A "celestial" nursery, equipped with a circular crib of aluminum frame and nylon mesh, suspended from the ceiling. The height from the floor is adjustable.

The extensive use of fabrics for wall coverings. Decorator Ellen Lehman McCluskey showed lush green velveteen on walls of a living room, where the dominant upholstery colors were deep rose and powder blue.

Tropical fish selected to fit a room decor. Decorator - designer Paul McCobb filled a small aquarium with a dozen bright blue fish to match the blue upholstery in a living room setting.

Chiropractor Opposes Water Fluoridation

To the Editor:

Council is to be commended for its practical and realistic approach to the question of artificial fluoridation of our water supply.

By putting the question up to the voters, Council has preserved the basic human rights of the individual of freedom of expression and freedom of health. The right to be free of unwanted invasion of our bodily privacy is one of the most important of those personal rights our Constitution was designed to protect. No one person, for scientific reasons or otherwise, can abrogate that God-given right.

Above all, Council as an elective representative body of the people should not be expected to assume the responsibility of determining what the people shall, or shall not, put into their bodies.

It is unlike deciding whether a street is to be paved with asphalt or concrete. Streets are inanimate objects with little difference what they are made up of. People are animated subjects, living flesh and blood with a right to health and happiness. They possess the faculty for reasoning and to express honest differences of opinions. Certainly they have the ability to intelligently determine whether they want to drink as pure water as is possible for their health in preference to drinking poisoned water against their wishes and better judgment.

City Lacks Power

Compulsory dosing of our water supply for non-communicable disease goes beyond the proper powers of government, locally or otherwise.

Nor can endorsements of fluoridation make it any more acceptable. Council might have endorsed it. But how substantial would such an endorsement be? Council admits its knowledge of fluoridation isn't sufficient to say yes or no on the issue. The mayor rightly expressed "he didn't want to tell people what kind of water to drink."

Fact of the matter an endorsement by the American Medical Association on fluoridation is to be reconsidered. At the November, 1956 meeting, the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association adopted a resolution calling for a "re-evaluation of the problem of fluoridation" to be offered at this year's meeting.

The question of fluoridation has many facets to consider. There is no place for emotionalism or name-calling if we are to face this question in the light of fact and reality. Nor can we be expected to accept self - imposed "authoritarian" voices as final word without question or investigation.

'Bewildered Nation'

We might well follow the example of the many sincere and thoughtful citizens — impartial scientists, doctors, physicians, dentists, researchers and lay persons—throughout the nation who are arising to the occasion. They have sifted out the facts, fitting into their places the many fragments of the fluoridation story which will eventually make headline for a bewildered nation.

This is being soberly reflected in the decision of the people throughout the nation who are rejecting fluoridation when put to a popular vote. There are now far more defeats (815) than cities which are being fluoridated. This includes the 89 cities which have discarded it after giving it a try; mainly, because of corrosive damage to the water system and illness.

The people of Monessen are to be thankful for the opportunity to express their wishes by vote. The people of Monessen stand only to profit and have nothing to lose by voting emphatically against the artificial fluoridation of our water supply.

Troychak, Shepler Impressing

University of Pennsylvania publicity releases are plugging both Dennis Troychak, Monessen tackle, and Bellmar's Glen Shepler as "very much in the Penn football picture this fall". . . . The releases have this to say about Troychak — "He is the 'gang leader' of teh forward wall, demonstrating leadership since the day practice opened. He can out-distance any of the other tackles in sprints and has carefully watched his weight until he is down to 212 from the 240 he once sported . . . About Shepler, publicity man Bob Paul says, "Should he continue to show the ability he has displayed in several scrimmages he could wind up as the No. 1 surprise on the Red and Blue squad — the biggest worry about Shepler is his weight which the coaches hope to pare down 15 pounds."

Charleroi physician Dr. Charles M. Rosenbloom has acquired another bright fighting prospect in Bobby Hughes, middleweight hopeful from Akron, O., who owns wins over John Morris of East Liberty and Wilf Greaves . . . Rosenbloom is building up a stable of fighters having Jackie Torme, former San Francisco heavyweight and Buck Henry, local boxer under his wing . . . Wayne Cipriani, ex-Greyhound quarterback, is making a strong bid for a starting post at Lafayette College and he's only a sophomore . . . Hempfield Area High School, a Monessen foe later this season, won its first football game in history Friday night but don't let that statement fool you, the Spartans only started playing last season.

Clairton Gridder WVU Captain

Bob Guenther, formerly of Clairton High and Chuck Howley of Wheeling will co-captain the West Virginia University grid team this season . . . Darrell Lewis, one of Pitt's 1956 quarterbacks, has been helping the Pitt coaches with the backfield chores during the preseason drills . . . We can't say for sure just what effect it has on their playing but the Windber gridders each did a somersault before taking the field against Monessen Saturday night . . . Penn State is now working on a winning streak of 18 in a row, extending from when Coach Bob Higgins was winning regularly for one of the most impressive records in college football.

While Monessen High Coach Armand Niccolai is searching for a place-kicker, East Cleveland Show High School is blessed with a lad who not only makes field goals with ease but does it bare-footed . . . He's Mario Gerhardt . . . Recently, out of 50 kicks he sent 47 through the uprights . . . He's from Vienna . . . The Pittsburgh Pirates have signed five Cubans for the 1958 season, all to farm club contracts. Their names would fill this column so we'll give the positions —shortstop, third-baseman-outfielder, catcher-infielder, shortstop and catcher . . . One of the scouts who signed the boys for the Buccos is named Napoleon Heredia, the other is Howie Haak.

Monongahela Revamped Team

Monongahela Bob Johnson averaged 12. yards per try against Snowden while Mike McCurdy gained 4.2 eac htime . . . The revamped Monongahela eleven finds Milton Diaz, formerly an end, at fullback, McCurdy, formerly a fullback, at halfback and Larry Pirchard, former tackle, at end, to name just a few . . . Speaking of the Pirates as we were above, Vernon Law has been sent home to recuperate from a ruptured ear drum suffered when he stopped a pitch by Ruben Gomez a couple of weeks ago . . . Vernon was coming along strongly in the stretch and had a 10-8 record . . . Dick Stuart (remember him?) has rejoined the Pittsburgh club and is taking special batting instructions.

Game of the Week

Navy over Boston College — As much chance as an ice cube in a hot toddy.

The South

Texas over Georgia — I don't think the Braves will blow it.

Georgia Tech over Kentucky—Brooklyn is a cinch to go west. . Duke over South Carolina—Case Stengel's doubletalk is a deliberate fraud.

North Carolina over N.C. State —Minor leaguers up for a late season "look" shouldn't be allowed to play against contenders.

Rice over L.S.U.—The Dodgers are right when they claim the front office "quit" on them.

Also: Mississippi over Trinity (Tex.), Tulane over Virginia Tech, Vanderbilt over Missourj, West Virginia over Virginia, Clemson over Presbyterian, Florida State over Furman, George Washington over W & M.

Texas Aggies over Maryland—The Robinson - Basilio fight is a risky bet.

Baylor over Villanova — Robinson is took cocksure for me.

Arkansas over Oklahoma State —He's a real nice Joe.

Tulsa over Hardin - Simmons—But if you point a gun at me I still won't wager on this bout.

The Midwest

Iowa State over Denver—The Moore - Anthony go should be a dilly.

Detroit over Marquette — They both hit like French 75's.

Nebraska over Washington State —The winner will be the worst catcher.

Arizona State over Wichita—The guy who makes like Yogi Berra will wake up with the morning editions.

The West

Oregon State over U.S.C.—Sam Snead still won't ever win the open.

California over S.M.U.—Jimmy Demaret is the best sports ad-libber I ever met.

Washington over Colorado — Amateur golf is chock full of hustlers.

Oregon over Idaho—Harvie War will win the Amateur again next year.

UCLA over Air Force Academy —And if you win with these, it's a miracle.

Also: Wyoming over Kansas State, Stanford over San Jose State, Utah over Montana State and Arizona over Brigham Young.

Jefferson, Lincoln Midget Winners

Franklin Blasted By 30-14 Count; Vocational Loses

Jefferson and Lincoln rolled along undefeated in local Midget Football League action with victories in the second night of action this season at the Stadium last night.

Opening the twin bill program before nearly a 1,000 fans Jefferson's Eric Crabtree continued his brilliant play, scoring three touch downs to pace a 30-14 victory over Frank-Lin, and Stanley Hamlin pacing leading Lincoln to a last-minute win, 6-0.

Crabtree, hard-running halfback, took a pass from quarterback Richard Steele for the first score, the play covering 60 yards in the initial quarter. Another TD in the second period put Jefferson out front 12-0 when Steele pulled a neat one-handed interception of a Frank - Lin pass and raced 60 yards to paydirt. Like their big brothers on the Monessen High varsity the Jeffs had trouble converting after TDs and missed a second try.

The third extra point attempt was also missed after Crabtree jaunted 55 yards for a score early in third quarter, later he pulled a neat one-handed interception of F-L pass and galloped 65 yards for a 24-0 count.

Coach Carmen DeMarco then substituted freely and Frank-Lin took advantage of the situation by punching across wto touchdowns and adding the points for a 24-14 score on a 20 yard run by Johnny Popovich, son of the Waynesburg College coach and a run by Bobby Beveridge for six yards into paydirt. Gerry Francia ran for one extra point, Bill Tweardy passing to B. Kachmarik for the other.

Jefferson was not finished yet, however as Keith Bellora got into the act with some neat running and pass receiving as did Fullback Billy Runfola with the latter catching a Steele pass for the final 30-14 score again falling on the point conversion by running the ball.

Ironically Frank-Lin led in first downs 7-6.

The second game failed to produce the high-scoring was none the less interesting as Vocational and Lincoln fought nip and tuck for almost four full quarters when with just a minute to play Stanley Hamlin, who had given Vocational "fits" all through the game, went over from the six yard line.

Allen Grant couldn't get across for the extra point but it didn't matter for the 6-0 score was enough for the victory, the second loss in a row handed Vocational, the defending champions.

Earlier in the game Vocational had advanced a couple of times deep into Lincoln territory only to lose the ball on fumbles or downs, Dick Kunsa, the quarterback, spearheading the drives with his passes, with help from Ralph Nuzzaci in the running department.

Hamlin, however, ran wild all night, repeatedly picking up first downs, which favored Lincoln, 10-4.

STANDINGS

Monongahela 'Better'; Tackle Trouble Here

Monongahela High School's 1957 football team has been tabbed by Wildcat fans as "much better than any we've had here the past couple of years" off the 14-0 victory performance of the Red and White against Snowden Friday night.

Coach Al Cree, who is back in harness after missing the opener due to a kidney ailment has juggled his material in attempting to come up with an eleven which will lead the 'Cats out of the doldrums.

For instance, Frankie Columbus, a quarterback last season, is now playing an end post, Dave Saunders, 200-pound tackle, is at guard; Jim Voelker, an end is the 1957 center; Mike McCurdy a '56 fullback is a halfback and Milton Diaz, an end last season is the new fullback, to name just a few

Backing up these experienced hands are lads like the Johnson twins, Bob and Bill, sophomores from Carroll Township where they had starred in basketball but couldn't play football as that sport was just instituted at Carroll this season, and Lew Cedar, 200-pound tackle.

Other veterans like Mike Bove, Ken Miller, Larry Pritchard at ends, Larry Putnak at tackle, Jim Robertson and Tracey Robertson and Jimmy Penrod at halfback round out the mainstays of the 'Cat squad.

Meanwhile, in the Greyhound kennel, Coach Armand Niccolai is having tackle troubles galore as Jim (Bobo) Aldrich, counted upon heavily to supply the spark at that post this week, will miss the 'Cat tilt and probably several other games due to a side injury. Ed Allen, 260-pounder, who had been expected to help after missing the opener is still nursing a bruised leg.

As for the kicking duties "Nick" is letting Vince Pascarella, Dan Barton, Bob Paulne and Dick Bass try their hands at booting 'em for as Niccolai puts it, "we're going to have a kicker this season or I'll die trying to find one."

The Monessen mentor also plans some defensive changes with Charles Bill, Wendell Osborne and Andy Carolla moving into position on defense, Osborne to take Aldrich's place. Another contemplated change may find Terry Throop moving to tackle from a guard post and Dan Blythe going to the Throop's guard position.

Local Directors' Decision Backs Big 5 Principals

The Monessen School Board formally approved the ouster of Redstone from the Big Six Football Conference last night without comment during its regular meeting.

The issue was forced by the Redstone School Board, which had requested in a letter that the Monessen directors look into the Conference action.

Acting on a recommendation by the athletic council, the school board upheld the Conference decision made by principals representing the five member schools.

The School Board also decided last night not to fill for this season the vacancy on the football staff created by the resignation of Nick Chomko.

Chomko's scheduled $500 coaching salary stirred some debate. The athletic council had suggested that the money be earmarked for the field house building fund.

The directors decided, however, that the council had no business earmarking money. The $500 will be placed in the general fund, the directors decided.

Here are other sports developments at the meeting:

STADIUM SIGN — The Ozarks A. C. informed the board that it intends to paint the "welcome" sign at Memorial Stadium.

OFFICIAL ASSIGNMENTS — The Board decided that all officials for football and basketball games will be selected by the athletic director after a conference with the head coaches.

EQUIPMENT CLEANING — The cleaning of football equipment was again assigned to the Ace Cleaning Co.

STADIUM LIGHTS — The Board okayed night football practice at Memorial Stadium at the discretion of the coach.

PERSONAL CAR — The Board approved a request by head football coach Armand Niccolai that he be permitted to use his own car to travel to games. Niccolai explained that the car would be helpful in the event of emergencies.

Costella, Kerr Teams Win St. John's Games

St. John's Bowling League action had the Costella and Kerr besting Joseph and Dacko.

A. Roman's 151 was the single game high while J. Dacko's 388 headed the three-game totals with A. Dacko and K. Joseph also marking up high totals.

Standings — Costella 4-2, A. Dacko 3-3, Kerr 3-3, Joseph 2-4.

Torpid Favored In Brown Jug

DELAWARE, Ohio, (UP)—Torpid is the horse to beat in the Little Brown Jug pacing classic here Thursday, but owners of 15 other 3-year-olds said they would give the big bay colt a run for the money.

The odds-makers quoted torpid at 3-5 in the morning line, making him the biggest favorite in the history of the race. The experts talked about the pride of the Sherwood Farms in Irvington, N.J., setting a world record if the track is fast.

Torpid's record of 33 victories in 36 heats failed to scare anybody out of the $73,528 race. The result was the second biggest field in the 12-year history of the grand circuit event.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Loss of Swing Power

The whole idea of the golf swing is to achieve timing, rhythm, tempo, and smooth power. The hands should be swung back together into the position from which they can best deliver their hardest possible controlled hit. As the backswing progesses, the rhythm, or timing, of the swing is building up. Timing is nothing more than a gradual acceleration of clubhead speed that reaches its maximum as the ball is met.

I start thinking in terms of setting up the proper swing rhythm from the moment I take my stance, for the shot. The preliminary waggle should contribute to this rhythm swing pattern. Then comes the slight forward movement called the 'forward press' which initiates the swing action. This gives your backswing a running start.

For the beginner, these ideas may be a little hard to soak up at first. But I recommend them to all golfers regardless of ability, because you can't have a sound golf swing without them.

Adcock, Aaron Give Braves 1-2 Punch

By FRED DOWN

Joe Adcock and Hank Aaron appear ready today to give the Milwaukee Braves the one-two punch that'll eventually stiffen the St. Louis Cardinals.

Coming through when they were needed most, big Joe and the title defending National League batting champion took care of the Braves' offense all by themselves Tuesday night in a 3-1 victory over the New York Giants that kept Milwaukee's lead at three games. It was a vital victory because the run-happy Cardinals walloped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 12-5, for their 10th triumph in their last 12 games.

The Braves didn't increase their lead but they gained something just as precious — time. They're still three games in front — and now the Cardinals have only 10 games to make up the margin.

Adcock, injured most of the last three months, hammered his first homer since June 9 with a mate aboard in the second inning and also collected two singles. Aaron tied Ernie Banks for the major league home run lead with his 41st in the eighth and also smashed two doubles.

Trowbridge Notches Victories

Bob Trowbridge, young right-hander who has allowed only five earned runs in his last 35 innings, pitched an air-tight five-hitter to gain his seventh victory for the Braves while rookie Curt Barclay was tagged with his ninth loss.

The Cardinals, driving down the stretch like the old Gashouse Gang of the 1930s, poured over seven runs in the seventh to clinch their victory over the Dodgers. A double by Don Blasingame and a bases-filled triple by pinch-hitter Irv Noren were the big blows of the frame which brought Larry Jackson his 15th win. Danny McDevitt took the loss for the Dodgers—his fourth against six wins.

In the American League, the New York Yankees whipped the Detroit Tigers, 7-1, and increased their lead to 6½ games with only nine to play when the Baltimore Orioles rallied to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 7-5, in 10 innings.

The Cincinnati Redlegs beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-5, and the Chicago Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-1, in other NL games while the Boston Red Sox shaded the Kansas City Athletics, 9-8, and the Cleveland Indians beat the Washington Senators, 7-3, in other AL games.

Hank Bauer touched off a six-run eight-inning rally with a homer as the Yankees routed southpaw Billy Hoeft. Bobby Shantz turned in a four-hitter and contributed a two-run single to New York's big inning to win his 11th decision.

Pierce Loses Heartbreaker

Billy Pierce, trying for his 20th win, carried a one-hit, 5-1 lead into the eighth inning when the Orioles rallied for four runs climaxed by Gus Triandos' two-run double. The Orioles won it against rookie Barry Latman in the 10th on Joe Durham's single and Bob Nieman's homer.

Homers by Bob Thurman and George Crowe sparked the Redlegs to a five-run outburst in the sixth and helped Joe Nuxhall win his 10th decision and fourth of the year over the Pirates. Roman Mejias and Frank Thomas homered for the Pirates who saw Bob Friend suffer his 18th loss.

Moe Drabowsky scattered seven hits and knocked in two runs with a homer and double to win his 11th game for the Cubs. Jack Sanford, 17-game winning rookie, suffered his eighth setback.

Ted Williams' pinch homer tied the score and Billy Klaus singled home a second run as the Red Sox rallied in the eighth to top the Athletics and Ray Narleski pitched a nine-hitter for his 11th victory as the Indians handed the Senators their 89th loss of the year.

Pete's Setting Pace In BM Electric

Blooming Mill Electric Bowling League action saw Buds, Steves and Rays top Petes, Macs and Joes.

V. Faust rolled a 190 for single honors and Frantz had a 498 for three-game laurels. McGraw, Valko, Marchall F. Loulis and R. Cheroki also posted top scores.

Standings — Petes 9-3, Buds 7-5, Rays 7-5, Steves 5-7, Joes 4-8, Macs 4-8.

Steelers Await Arrival of New QB Morrall

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—It was one down and one to go for the Pittsburgh Steelers today as they opened practice here for their final exhibition game Saturday night against the Green Bay Packers.

Dale Atkeson, the veteran Washington Redskins fullback, arrived in the Steeler camp Tuesday with every intention of playing football. But still missing was quarterback Earl Morrall, the former Michigan State star who was traded to the Steelers by the San Francisco Forty Niners. 6 6

Atkesoc, who had refused to report to Pittsburgh after being traded for tackle Don Owen, arrived from his home in Lomita, Cal., after several telephone calls from Coach Buddy Parker. Morrall was reported motoring eastward from San Francisco.

To make room for Atkeson, the Steelers dropped Brad Myers, a veteran back obtained recently from the Los Angeles Rams.

Parker, who has made more trades in a few weeks than the Pittsburgh team made in years, plans to hold daily scrimmages until game time in Municipal Stadium.

Orioles Making All-out Bid For Tigers' Kuenn

NW YORK (UP)—The Baltimore Orioles are making an all-out bid for Detroit shortstop Harvey Kuenn but Tiger Manager Jack Tighe insisted today "it will take a whale of an offer to get him away from us."

Baltimore boss Paul Richards and Detroit General Manager Johnny McHale conferred during the past week and the door was left open for future discussions regarding the deal.

"We're not trying to peddle Kuenn," Tighe emphasized "Richards would have to offer us a mighty attractive package before we would consider letting Harvey go. True, eh's having a disappointing year but we still feel he's a top-drawer ballplayer and we're not the least bit anxious to part with him."

The Orioles' chief lure for the Tigers is catcher - first baseman Gus Triandos but Baltimore would have to add an infielder and perhaps even a third player before Detroit would seriously consider okaying the deal.

Kuenn, who hit .332 last year but is batting only .274 this season, is a spray-type hitter whose batting style is tailor-made for Baltimore's spacious ball park.

The figure known as Christ of the Andes is 26 feet high and rests on a granite column 22 feet high.

Pirates Back in Cellar Following Defeat at Hands of Cincy Redlegs

CINCINNATI (UP)—Ohio Pittsburgh Pirates were back in the National League cellar following a 9-5 loss to the fourth place Cincinnati Redlegs.

Home runs by Bob Thurman and George Crowe sparked to Redlegs to a five-run sixth-inning rally Tuesday night and dropped Pittsburgh into last place, a half-game behind the Chicago Cubs.

Homers by Roman Mejias and Frank Thomas had enabled the Pirates to go into the start of the sixth with the score 2-2. But the Redlegs broke the game with their rally and routed Bob Friend who suffered his 18th defeat.

Joe Nuxhall, credited with his 10th victory, was relieved in the seventh when the Pirates rallied for three runs.

R. G. Smith (2-3) will start against Cincinnati tonight in what will be Pittsburgh's final game against a western club. Brooks Lawrence (15-12) will start for the Redlegs.

The Pirates announced Tuesday the signing of righthanded pitcher Arthur Francis Henry, 20, Liberty, N.Y., to a 1958 contract with their Grand Forks, N.D., farm club in the Class C, Northern League.

Ted Opens 11-Point Lead Over Mantle

BOSTON (UP)—Ted Williams' dramatic pinch-hit home run in his return to action for the Boston Red Sox Tuesday also enabled the 39-year-old slugger to open up an 11-point lead over Mickey Mantle in the race for the American League batting crown.

Williams' one hit in one official trip raised his average to .377. Mantle, meanwhile, went hitless in three trips for the Yankees

Shavlik Back to NBA

NEW YORK, (UP)—Ron Shavlik, six-foot-eight center who led North Carolina State to three straight Atlantic Coast Conference championships, and then failed to make the New York Knickerbockers team last season, signed with them for the 1957-58 campaign Tuesday. ## Holdouts Take Terms

PROVIDENCE (UP) — Center Dave Creighton, who scored 38 goals during the past two National Hockey League campaigns, signed his 1957-58 contract with the New York Rangers Tuesday. He became the 10th of 17 ranger holdouts to accept terms.

Rams Seen Regaining Top Form In NFL During 1957 Campaign

By ALEX KAHN

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The Los Angeles Rams' big hope for a successful 1957 pro football season is that they can pick up where they left off in 1956 when quarterback Norm Van Brocklin finally got going.

And if pre-season play is any indication, the Rams may be a revitalized team playing more like it did in 1955 when it won the Western Conference title rather than last year when it tied for last.

Although Van Brocklin and his understudy, Bill Wade, are key men in the Rams lineup, Los Angeles has caught fire with its running attack and does not need to rely solely on its passing.

Arnett At End

The running backs who have looked good are Ron Waller, Tom Wilson, fullback Tank Younger and his alternate, Joe Marconi.

A pleasant and added surprise has been the field goal and conversion kicking of Paige Cothren of Mississippi, who led the Rams in pre-season scoring entirely with his toe.

Coach Sid Gillman raised the eyebrows of Ram followers early by shifting rookie halfback Jon Arnett, one of the all-time great college backs at Southern California, to end after the veteran Elroy (Crazylegs) Hirsch was injured in the opening pre-season game. And Arnett proved just as capable at end as he was expected to be at his regular post.

Gillman says he intends moving Arnett into the backfield later in the season to add another running threat, but he is not hurrying the move because of the agility shown by the rookie at the strange post.

Morris Breaks Leg

The rest of the Rams offensive line is capably handled by such veterans as end Leon Clarke, tackles Bob Fry and Glen Holtzman, guards Duane Putnam and John Hock and center Bob Griffin.

Bulwarks of the Los Angeles defensive unit are linebacker Les Richter and veteran linemen Paul Miller, Frank Fuller, Art Hauser and Dick Daugherty. Will Sherman heads the defensive backs, supported by Don Burroughs, Alex Bravo and Dean Derby. The Rams suffered a major setback when Larry Morris broke a leg but he is expected to return to action by midseason.

"I'm looking for the club to bounce back after last year's poor season," Gillman said, "and the play of our veterans along with the surprisingly good work of some of our rookies makes me think we'll play more like we did at the end of last season than we did earlier in the year."

'Lunatic' Drivers Blasted

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (UP)—A state official contends that 10 per cent of motorists, "the lunatic fringe" is responsible for the majority of accidents on the highways.

O. D. Shipley, head of the state Bureau of Highway Safety, said Tuesday night that fair but strict law enforcement can be accomplished only through the use of "modern tools."

He told a meeting of the Chambersburg Kiwanis Club here the state was deprived of a proven weapon in law enforcement when the 1958 Legislature failed to approve use of radar, a recommendation of Gov. George M. Leader's Traffic Safety Council.

Shipley said experience in states using radar shows that it saves the taxpayers money through reduced police manpower requirements, reduced expenditures on police car maintenance and repair, lower court costs due to a higher percentage of uncontested cases, and fewer and less costly accidents.

"Further, failure of the last session of the Legislature to approve the use of radar is still causing our police to endanger their own lives and the lives of other innocent persons in an attempt to catch the 'lunatic fringe' of speeding drivers," he said.

CO-PASTORS IN CHICAGO — New co-pastors of Normal Park Baptist Church in Chicago are the Rev. Fred Tiffany (left) and the Rev. Merrel Booker. They will preach in the city's first integrated church. # Financial Experts Look for Big Gains

By UNITED PRESS

Financial experts are glib on their earnings estimates for 1957. They look for wide gains over 1956 for such companies as Chrysler, Westinghouse Electric, the tobaccos, the banks, many of the drugs, and the steels.

Higher estimates re given for a long list of others in such lines as aircraft, tires, selected rails, electronics, business machines, and oil equipments.

But the big problem is the 1958 earnings score. What companies are going to earn more in 1958 than in 1957? The last is really tough to figure out, says Eldon A. Grimm, analyst for Walston & Co.

"We've got to admit that, as of this moment, we don't know the answer," says Grimm. "But it's a vital question that we have to think about over the next few weeks.

"It's almost certain that there are four or five groups of stocks and certain individual issues that could do better next year than in 1957.

"These might include certain movie companies renting films to TV, or it might concern some special phase of missiles, or missile electronics.

"Or it might be I. B. M. again. Or it might be some natural gas issues. Or color TV might really catch on. Or, almost anything else might happen in 1958."

International Statistical Bureau, interviewing Washington economists, reports few willingt o commit themselves definitely on 1958 business prospects at this time.

But the bureau doesn't find anyone very pessimistic regarding 1958. It does find a number who are expecting some moderate readjustment. Even the most optimistic are expecting only a sustained level of business through most of 1958, it adds.

A year ago at this time the setimates on 1957 earnings were freely given. They were wrong.

Two CSTC Faculty Members Get PHDs

They are Leslie E. Crowley, an instructor in the education department, and Minor W. Major, an instructor in the English department

Dr. Crawley was granted the Doctor of Education degree by George Peabody College for Teachers. He joined the CSTC faculty in 1955 after serving as principal of Gaffney High School in Gaffney, S. C.

Dr. Crowley received his bachelor's degree at the University of South Carolina, where he also earned his master's degree. He and his wife make their home in Uniontown along with their four-month old son.

Dr. Major was granted a Doctor of Philosophy degree with a major in English by the University of Colorado. He received his bachelor's degree from Washington University in St. Louis and his master's degree from the University of Kansas.

Dr. Major's research dissertation was "Thomas Morton and His New English Cannan."

Sailor Vincent Rates Movie Fight Champ

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Sailor Vincent's name may not strike too many persons in film audiences as something familiar, but they've seen him more times than they can guess. And, in addition, he's given them some of the most exciting moments they've had from motion pictures.

Sailor Vincent has been in film brawls for the past 30 years. He figures he had his 1,000th movie fight in "No Time for Sergeants," a Mervyn LeRoy production for Warner Bros. It's a wild, hard-swinging night club brawl that's guaranteed to keep eyes open — unless they're accidentally on the receiving end of some punches on the set, of course.

Vincent began boxing while in the United States Navy and eventually became the welterweight champion of the Navy. He became a professional and lost 25 of 268 bouts. One was to the then welter champ, Jack Britton

"I remember that fight," Vincent recalled. "I laid a hand on him just twice during the entire fight — once when we shook hands at the beginning of the fight and again when we shook hands after it was over."

Vincent startedd his film fight career in 1927 in "The Fleet's In" He's been in many a movie tangle since then, but the most damaging punch hee ever caught came pfrom the elderly actiess, Mae Robson. He was supposed to be teaching her how to toss a punch Somehow she landed one right on his button and he went down. He never forgot it.

"There's an obvious difference between fighting for real and movie fighting," he said. "As a pro I was paid to hurt my opponent. In movies I'm paid to give the impression I'm hurting him, but I'm not supposed to damage him.

"You can see it takes more brain work to be good at this. Every move has to be timed perfectly so you don't make one small mistake which means maybe a star will have a black eye or a lost tooth or two or three."

Vincent said the brawl in "No Time for Sergeants" with Myron McCormick and Andy Griffith came off without any injuries.

Pilot Has Fight with Passenger

CUTCHOGUE, N.Y. UP — A pilot spent five terrifying minutes fighting off a berserk lone passenger over Long Island Tuesday before crash landing his small plane in a potato field.

The pilot, Roger C. Loncdeaux, 40, of Lake Mahopac, N. Y. told police he was flying the passenger from White Plains, N. Y., to East Hampton, across Long Island Sound. Suddenly, at 3,000 feet, the passenger, Arthur C. Miller, 29, of New Rochelle, N. Y., struck him from behind. A stunned but still conscious, Loncdeaux threw the plane into a nose-dive, throwing Miller off his feet. Then as Loncdeaux tried to level off the four-seater Cessna craft, Miller seized him by the throat, the pilot told police.

Momentarily blacked out, Loncdeaux lost control of the plane which careened wildly in the air less than 500 feet above ground. Fighting for his life while trying to control the plane, Loncdeaux zoomed the craft up and down in an attempt to keep Miller off balance. But the beserk passenger cootinued his assault.

"Everytime he got real violent I pulled up sharply, bouncing him off the ceiling and floor," the pilot said. He tried to strangle me twice and fought me all the way down to the ground."

Finally, Loncdeaux, an Air Force pilot during World War II and the Korean conflict, spotted a golf course and set down in the potato field.

On landing Miller fled, but was found by police an hour later in a swamp.

County Art Museum Financed by Bequest from Greensburg Woman

Plans were announced today for the Westmoreland County Museum of Art, which will be financed through a multi-million dollar bequest by a Greensburg woman.

The museum will be supervised by the Woods-Marchand Foundation which was incorporated on Dec. 9, 1949 with funds provided by the late Mary M. Woods.

The museum will be in memory of Mrs. Woods' husband, Cyrus B. Woods, and the Marchand family of Greensburg.

Woods had a long record of public service prior to his death. He served as president pro-tem of the Pennsylvania State Senate, ambassador to Spain, ambassador to Japan, state attorney general and secretary of the commonwealth

The museum will be located on Academy Hill in Greensburg, property given to the foundation by the Marchand family.

Two Million Dollars

Mrs. Woods died on Jan. 28, 1953, bequeathing a sum not exceeding $500,000 for the construction of the museum. She also left approximately two million dollars in trust for maintenance and expansion.

Plans call for the museum building to be completed by August of 1958.

The building will be of Georgian architecture, brick-trimmed with limestone. The contractor is the Dill Construction Co, Latrobe. Plans and specifications were prepared by Sorber and Hoone, architects.

The first floor of the proposed building will contain a lecture hall for use by civic organizations such as the Westmoreland County Historical Society and Art Clubs, headquarters for the Historical Society, classrooms and storage space.

The second floor, will house period rooms in which will be displayed miscellaneous items bequeathed by Mrs. Woods to the Foundation. Exhibition galleries for permanent displays and traveling exhibits will also be located on the second floor.

The top floor will contain an archives room and museum offices.

The board of Directors is composed of Judge Richard D. Laird, president; Thomas Lynch, vice-president; John A. Robertshaw, vice-president; John Barclay Jr., treasurer; Louis E. Sensenich, secretary; Roy C. McKenna, James Gregg, Rev. William G. Ryan, Roger K. Buxton, Calvin E. Pollins.

Road Crews on Storm Alert

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Highways Department today advised district engineers and county officials to review its emergency operation plan in preparation for possible hurricanes during September and October.

The plan, set up by the state after Hurricane Diane in 1955, is aimed at coordinating the department's manpower and material in preventing as far as possible destruction of state roads and providing emergency equipment to keep communication lines open.

The first phase of the plan calls for notification of other state departments and military and civil defense organizations. A central operations room, operating around the clock, would be established here in the event a hurricane strikes the state.

East-West Race to Space Is Getting Hot

WASHINGTON (UP)—The East-West race to conquer space is getting hot.

The Air Force announced late Tuesday it will attempt to fire a research rocket to the unprecedented height of 1,000 to 4,000 miles late this month.

Simultaneously Russia hinted, with the dramatic words "The assault on the universe has begun," that it is about to launch its version of an artificial earth satellite.

The four-stage U.S. Air Force rocket will be launched from a balloon - supported platform 100,000 feet over Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific to help free it from the earth's gravitational pull.

The Air Force said the rocket will be fired strictly as an "exploratory research effort" with no attempt made to have it swing into an orbit around the earth in the form of an artificial moon.

But the rocket, if it reaches the desired height, would probably exceed the 300 to 1,500-mile altitude necessary to set an artificial moon circling the earth in a fixed orbit

Both the United States and Russia plan to launch an earth satellite—or several—during the 18-month worldwide scientific discovery period known as the International Geophysical Year. While this country has disavowed any race with Moscow, the world is watching with interest to see which of the major East-West powers puts the first artificial moon in the sky.

Radio Moscow, in a broadcast Tuesday, did not actually say when the launching will take place. It said only that Russia "will shortly take the first step into cosmic flight by launching an artificial earth satellite."

This country's satellite is slated to be launched later this year or early next year.

Damage Suit Testimony to Be Resumed Nov. 6

ERIE, Pa. (UP)—Testimony in a $406,978 damage suit filed by owners of the Diamond Casting Co., Johnsonburg, against the New York and Pennsylvania Paper Co., will be resumed Nov. 6 in Pittsburgh.

Federal Judge Wallace Gourley granted a continuance Tuesday after attorneys for New York and Pennsylvania Paper also of Johnsonburg, had requested the delay. Attorneys for the paper firm said illness and death in the family prevented key witnesses from testifying.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Acke, DuBois, Pa., owners of Diamond Casting, offered no objections.

William A. Hambley, a Burlingame, Mich., metallurgist, was on the stand undergoing cross-examination when the delay was called.

Mr. and Mrs. Acke seek damages on grounds they were forced out of business because fine chemical dust from the paper firm's operation caused defects in castings produced by the Diamond plant.

Law Librarian Named for State

Stock Trading at Lowest Level

By ELMER C. WALZER

NEW YORK (UP) — Trading in stocks on the basis of percentage of listed shares has fallen off to the smallest total since records were started at the beginning of this century.

For days at a time the trades have been less than 9 per cent of the listings on an annual basis. The only time that annual rate was touched was in 1942.

Now comes the firm of Francis I. Du Pont & Co. with a new measurement of the market showing that industrials for the past 18 months have fluctuated in their narrowest area of the century.

For nearly two years the industrials have held their swings to an area of 13 6 per cent between the highs and lows.

The Du Pont firm shows this graphically and notes such large yearly fluctuations of the averages as 31 5 per cent in 1954; 42.5 per cent in 1937; 55.1 per cent in 1933; 63.6 per cent in 1931; 49.4 per cent in 1929; 39 3 per cent in 1920; 45.4 per cent in 1915; 45 per cent in 1907; 37.8 per cent in 1903 and 31.1 per cent in both 1897 and 1896.

This situation—the low percentage movement in 1956 and 1957—may mean one of two things, according to the brokerage firm. It may mean evidence of material accumulation or distribution.

"While the stock market indices may not presently possess the same validity they did when most shares moved in the same direction," the firm notes, "they still provide indications of trend.

"And, in the past more than 20 months it has been a seesawing market within a narrow range. On a purely timing basis, history suggests that a breakout may not be too far distant.

The Du Pont calculation shows that while the average has moved narrowly percentagewise, the ups and downs have been wide, covering more than 630 points in the average.

With volume what it has been the market hasn't had the period of excessive speculation that marks the end of a bull era.

But Wall Street is studying the market from every angle just now to plot the probable future. So far the only comment follows the J.P. Morgan prediction that the market will fluctuate.

27 Plowmen in the 'Battle of Furrows'

PEEBLES, Ohio, (UP)—Twenty seven champion plowmen from around the nation dug their plows into the dark soil near this Adams County village in a "battle of the furrows," for the 1957 national level land and contour plowing championships.

Twelve states entered contestants in the match of the year at the World Conservation Exposition and Plowing Contests sprawled over the 2,500-acre site. This is the first time in its five-year history the World has been held in the United States.

Lawrence Goettemoeller, 46, St Henry, Ohio, won his second straight level land title in 1956 The slim, wiry Mercer County farmer captured the level land crown at Iowa to become the sixth Ohioan in nine years to win a U. S. title.

John Daniels, 35, Mulberry Grove, Ill., won the contour title at the Iowa matches He won the crown the first time in 1954 at Iowa matches. He won the crown the first time in 1954 at Olney, Ill., and was unable to compete this year because a contest rule bars two time winners.

Other states entered, in addition to Ohio, are Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Missouri, South Dakota, Illinois, Indiana, New York, Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Winners of the contour and level land matches compete next year in the world plowing matches in Germany. Rule of the national matches are similar to those of the Ohio matches which highlighted the exposition's opening day Tuesday.

Esther Moving into The Louisiana Coast

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Tropical storm Esther moved in on the Louisiana coast today, sending thousands of wind-wary residents inland.

Winds and tides were rising in the area north of the storm, which was expected to hit the coast early today. But the center was expected to touch land well east of Cameron Parish, which felt Hurricane Audrey's full fury, and Esther's punch promised to be much weaker

In an advisory issued at 1 a m c s t, the New Orleans Weather Bureau reported the storm about 100 miles off the coast due south of Morgan City, La., and winds had risen to 40 miles an hour along portions of the Louisiana coast. Tides had risen about two feet

Winds were expected to go as high as 60 miles an hour later today along the Louisiana and Mississippi coasts and tides of three to five feet above normal were predicted.

A rush toward safe ground began quickly Tuesday after storm warnings were issued Workers on offshore oil rigs went ashore and several thousand residents joined them in a mass evacuation of the coastal area

Pelican Island was deserted late yesterday except for civil defense radio operators who were helping the weather bureau keep track of winds and tides.

Although no warning was issued in Cameron Parish, about 1 500 persons moved out of low-lying areas.

Giraffes and Pilots

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UP) — Jet pilots may get help in combatting the strain of the pull of gravity through a study of the giraffe Dr. Otto S. Grauel said Monday he has found that the tight, tough skin of the giraffe's legs acts as a natural pressure suit—like jet pilots wear—keeping the blood from draining from the animal's head when it should not

Advertising Pays Off for Butterflies

NEW YORK (UP) — Careful scientific experimentation has shown how very well advertising pays off for butterflies who have something to advertise—and also for butterflies who don't but are clever enough to advertise anyway.

What the monarch butterfly has to advertise is that his flesh doesn't taste good to birds, for an unknown reason since no scientist has yet interviewed a bird on the whys of his taste preferences. But the viceroy butterfly couldn't advertise that properly—he does taste good

Yale Zoologist Experiments

Jane Van Zandt Brower, Yale University zoologist, gave 339 monarch butterflies to four Florida scrub jay birds, a kind of bird which is an avid butterfly eater and presumably a connoisseur as regards butterfly flesh. Of the 339, not one was eaten.

She gave the same birds 60 viceroy butterflies and not one of them was eaten, either The monarch advertises with a coloration pattern so very conspicuous that even people know a monarch when they see one The viceroy advertises by mimicing the monarch pattern to a fareyouwell.

Mrs. Brower's experimentations were designed to give statistical proof to the presumed values of mimicry in the butterfly world, which is a well established phenomenon. But there's been a lot of guess work in explaining it and scientists naturally prefer facts over guesses.

Legion Asks Medals for Chaplains

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP) — The American Legion Tuesday night resolved to ask Congress to award the Congressional Medal of Honor to the four chaplain heroes of World War II.

The four chaplains—all of different faiths—died in the torpedo sinking of the Army Transport Dorchester on Feb. 3, 1943, off Greenland.

The Legion's 39th national convention said the conduct of the four chaplains was an "inspiring example of courageous and unselfish devotion to God and country."

The chaplains, all first lieutenants, were George L. Fox, Gilman, Vt., a Methodist; Alexander D. Goode, York, Pa., a Jew; Clark V. Poling, Schenectady, N.Y., Reformed Church; and John P. Washington, Newark, N.J., a Catholic.

They gave their life preservers to four young GIs while the ship was sinking.

"These four heroic chaplains helped to save over 200 persons before the Dorchester went down in a rumble of steam 25 minutes after it was hit," the resolution said. "The last anyone saw of them, the four were standing on the slanting deck, their arms linked in prayer."

Johnstown Man Is Sentenced to Jail

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Max Haffner, 48, Johnstown businessman, was sentenced Monday to 21 days in jail and fined $750 on a charge of income tax evasion.

He pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Rabe F. Marsh to understating his income in 1953 by $9,178 and failing to pay $2,717 in income taxes.

His attorney, Alexander Cooper, contended his difficulties were the result of poor accounting.

Haffner operates a door-to-door canvassing business called Consolidated Home Equipment Company.

Russia Claiming Lead in Earth Satellite Race

LONDON (UP)—Radio Moscow said today Soviet scientists "will shortly take the first step in cosmic flight by launching an artificial earth satellite."

The announcement came on the 100th anniversary of the birth of Konstantin Tsiulkovsky, whom the Russians consider the "father" of interplanetary travel and the intercontinental ballistic missile.

Scientific observers had expected some announcement on the Soviet earth satellite or possibly the first launching would be made today to mark the anniversary.

But observers did not expect any announcement until a satellite actually has been successfully fixed in its orbit. It was doubted that preliminary failures would be recorded.

Today's broadcast gave no exact date for the first launching, if one has not already been attempted, beyond saying that it would come "shortly."

Pope Frowns on Second Weddings

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII said today the Roman Catholic Church, while not "condemning" second marriages for widows, prefers to see them remain single.

"Although the Church does not condemn second marriages (for widows)" said the Pontiff, "she shows her preference for souls who rest faithful to their spouses in the perfect symbolism of the sacrament of marriage."

The Pope's remarks came in a speech made Monday to the International Union of Family Groups and released today.

Vatican sources said that although the Pope was referring specifically to widows, his remarks were intended to apply to widowers as well.

'Baby UN' in Sessions to Help Improve International Relations

PUTNEY, Vt. (UP) — A 19-nation "Baby UN" yesterday opened a six-day session to explore methods of improving international understanding through the science of human relations.

Even the system of translation employed at United Nations headquarters in New York was put to use here for the 25th anniversary meeting of the experiment in international living. Talks in many languages, including Hindustani and Japanese, were translated simultaneously into English, French, German and Spanish on four networks of earphones.

The experiment was founded in 1932 by Donald B. Watt. In its 25 years the non-profit group has sent more than 6,000 American youths abroad to learn foreign attitudes and cultures by living with foreign families.

Human Relations Theme

About 2,500 Europeans, Asians and Africans have "experimented" by coming to spend a couple of months with American families. Delegates include 250 Americans and 150 from abroad.

The meeting on beautiful West Hill, headquarters of the world-wide group, consists of discussion groups which report to panels of experts who then try to decide, for instance, how to prepare American youths for Japanese diet and family customs.

Or, it might be the problem of putting a young American in a Moslem household where four wives are present.

Conference Chairman Clarence Falk said, "The theme is the science of human relations across national boundaries . . . trying to educate members in cross-cultural understanding."

Graduates of the experiment include a niece of President Eisenhower and grandchildren of the late Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and William H. Taft. Sandra Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Rockefeller III, was an experimenter this summer.

Many Professionals

Others who have lived abroad as "brothers and sisters" in foreign families include Harlan Cleveland, dean of the Maxwell School of Public Affairs and World Citizenship at Syracuse University.

Frank Rounds, author of "Window On Red Square," is another graduate, along with Jonathan Fadiman, son of book reviewer Clifton Fadiman, and Bill Cody, grandson of the famous Indian scout, "Buffalo Bill."

Falk reports that more than 12 per cent of the graduates are professionally engaged in jobs involving international affairs and 30 per cent are in voluntary civic work of an international nature.

Watt, now 63, is international president. Gordon Boyce, formerly at Colgate University, is administrative president.

Speakers at the 29th birthday conference include Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt.), Richard Salzmann, vice president of the People-to-People Foundation, Dr. David Riesman, Chicago University sociologist, and Jean Vergnes, director of the experiment in France.

Young Paralyzed Burglar Gets Prison Sentence

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A young burglar, paralyzed from the waist down, lay on a table in Criminal Court and heard himself sentenced to prison for 7 to 18 years.

Twice before, when he was in good health, James E. Miller, 23, had received leniency from Judge Harry M. Montgomery.

But Monday, even his paralysis failed to save him.

Montgomery sent the young McKeesport man to jail for armed robbery, burglary and auto theft.

"The doctors in jail and the warden cannot say what is wrong with you with any degree of certainty," the judge told Miller. "You may be better in a short time—or you may not. If not, the Parole or Pardons Board may act."

Miller was injured on June 28 in the Allegheny County jail. He is considering a damage suit against the county.

Beaver Valley Bus Lines to Increase Fares

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Beaver Valley Motor Coach Co., New Brighton, will raise school fares one-half cent for two-zone and one cent for four or more zone rides in the Beaver Falls area, beginning Sept. 30.

The Public Utility Commission approved the firm's new fare schedule which raises the two-zone school fare from 11 to 11½ cents, and the "all-zone" trip from 22 to 23 cents. At the same time the firm will replace tokens now in use with school tickets to eliminate "ever-increasing" costs.

No changes will be made in the 6½ cent single zone fare, but tickets for such rides will be sold in blocks of 20 for $1.30, instead of 10 for 65 cents.

The firm estimated the changes will produce $570 additional revenue a year.

Five Chosen to Train for Loan Firm Examiners

HARRISBURG (UP)—Five men have been chosen by the state Banking Department for the state's training program for building and loan associations examiners.

The five trainees will undergo a one-week orientation course in the department headquarters here then be placed in building and loan association offices in various parts of the state for eight weeks of on-the-job-training in the fundamentals of association operations.

The trainees are expected to complete their training with the Banking Department's Building and Loan Bureau at the completion of their assignments. Those names were:

Richard P. Hallahan, Albert J. Mezger, William H. Skinner, Herbert M. Chubin, all of Philadelphia, and John C. Lauffer, of Washington, Pa.

Personal Income Climb Reported Higher Than 1956

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Commerce Department reported today that personal income in August climbed to an annual rate of $347,500,000,000, a billion dollars more than in July.

This was 20 billion dollars more than the total personal income for 1956.

About half of the July-August rise occurred in wages and salaries. Most of the remainder was in proprietors' income.

Today's monthly report noted that the annual rate of personal income in August was five billion dollars higher than during the second quarter of the year.

Larger non-farm properties' in August reflected greater sales in retail goods and services, the report said. Higher livestock prices largely accounted for a jump in farmers' income.

Ambridge Gas To Raise Rates

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Ambridge Gas Co. will raise rates of its 1,412 consumers in the Ambridge area of Beaver County an estimated $6,950 annually, beginning Sept. 23.

The increase approved by the Public Utility Commission Monday was to offset a boost in the wholesale cost of gas purchased from the Manufacturers Light and Heat Co., Pittsburgh, the firm said.

The utility's monthly minimum charge for the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas will be increased from $1.50 to $1.56. The rate per thousand cubic feet over the minimum will be raised from 65 to 68 cents.

Reds Man Rockets?

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP) —The Soviets may be developing a manned intercontinental rocket, German rocket expert Dr. Eugen Saenger said Monday. He told the West German newspaper Die Welt that the Russians appear to be "disposed toward a manned intercontinental missile in order to achieve a greater accuracy in the target area.

PLAYS AT THE FEET OF HENRY VIII — Historic backgrounds have little attraction for Luther H. Leake, 2, son of Dr. and Mrs. Preston Leake, of Hopewell, Va., as he plays with pebbles before wax figures of Henry VIII (left) and his Chancellor, Sir Thomas More. The tableau is one item in the Old World Pavilion installed by the British Government for the Jamestown (Va.) Festival, which will be attended by Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, when they visit Jamestown on Oct. 16.

Similarity Between People and Codfish

NEW YORK (UP) —Science has found a similarity between people and codfish which is no coincidence. Rather, it is a further indication that somewhere way, way back people and codfish have a common ancestor.

The similarity is in how codfish react when they get out of water and how people react when they dive into water. They act almost identically to preserve their very lives in a life-threatening situation. The facts as to codfish are newly discovered, by three Norwegian scientists.

Blood Closes Off

When the codfish is taken from the water he is threatened with oxygen starvation. just as people are when they submerge themselves under water. The codfish reacts by instantly reducing his need for oxygen. His blood no longer flows through his muscles —they're closed off from the circulation.

Down goes his heart rate, to half or less of what it is in the water. Since when he is out of water he is thrashing around and exercising his muscles like mad, it seems hardly possible. But it is possible because muscles are capable of acting for short periods without the free oxygen they obtain from the circulating blood.

Muscles Need "Fuel"

The Norwegians found that the "fuel" for muscular activity accumulated in the muscles the instant the codfish left the water. Its presence was indicated by an increase of lactic acid in the muscles and a decrease of it in the blood. When the fish were put back into water to recover, the blood was flooded with lactic acid, indicating that the muscles were no longer being by-passed.

H. Leivestad, H. Andersen, and P. F. Scholander, of the University of Oslo, in reporting their results to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, pointed out that when people dive into water, their heart rates diminish greatly and that is true even while they are "swimming vigorously." So a cut-off of muscles from blood circulation is indicated.

It has been proved in other diving mammals, for instance, the seal; and in diving birds. The scientists could only conclude their codfish "very probably" have "the same sort of protective mechanisms." They thought the decreased heart rate resulted from the restriction of surface blood flow. In at least some diving mammals the arterial blood pressure doesn't fall with decreased heart rate which suggests that normal blood flow is maintained in the organs not capable of functioning without free oxygen.

There was one curious sidelight. As in seals, a decreased heart rate could be brought about in codfish "simply by frightening the animals" — without taking them from the water. This the scientists called "a diving reflex" which, they commented, "might seem to be an excellent idea for a flying fish but how it could ever benefit a codfish is an evolutionary puzzle."

Chief Engineer Named in State

HARRISBURG (UP)—John H. Comiskey, Philadelphia, today took over as chief traffic engineer for the state Highways Department, replacing Robert R. Coleman on leave of absence for graduate study at Yale University.

Comiskey was promoted from his post as the department's head safety engineer. His former assistant, John F. Huzvar, was named acting safety engineer.

Comiskey will receive an annual salary of $9,454 in his new post. Huzvar's salary is $6,090.

A tittle is a fine, minute stroke which often distinguishes one letter from another in the Hebrew alphabet.

Pittsburgh Symphony Plans Are Announced

Karl Kritz, associate conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony will conduct two pairs of the coming concert series at Syria Mosque while Steinberg, music director of the Pittsburgh Symphony will appear in fourteen pairs of concerts in this his sixth season with the orchestra.

Bridge Boo-Boo

PARIS (UP) — French officials admitted today they made a mistake when they built a new $30,000 bridge near Orly Air Field as part of the Southern Expressway from Paris. It did not take into account a planned extension of Orly runways for the use of jet transports. The bridge was blown up Saturday. It will be replaced by a tunnel.

New Tire Will Eliminate Spare

WAYNE, N.J. (UP)—A new tire that will last three times as long as present tires and eliminate the necessity for a spare tire was revealed today as the goal of a 120 million dollar research program undertaken by United States Rubber Co.

H.E. Humphreys Jr., president, announced the company's bold research effort embracing its 22 laboratories here and abroad at a press showing of a new research center that will be formally dedicated Wednesday.

One of the company's major goals will be the development of a passenger car tire of such durability that "such a tire at popular prices would permit the elimination of the spare tire on both new and used cars," Humphreys said.

French Beavers Get Ideas from Human Beings

ST. VERNAN, France (UP)—French beavers who haven't done a lick of work in 200 years are amazing the French who thought the animals had become too civilized to care about dams and things.

Turns out they are now as busy as American beavers.

Fascinated French zoologists said the beavers lived on the fast-flowing Rhone River for two centuries without even thinking about building a dam.

Then along came some humans who built a big concrete dam and gave the beavers ideas.

About 300 beavers who had been moved from the right bank of the Rhone to the tiny Tave River to make room for the dam went to work. They cut down trees, rolled stones, dug narrow channels to carry their materials upriver, tied branches together and cemented them with mud, moss and leaves

The level of the Tave rose nearly four feet along a 500-yard stretch as result of the construction job.

Elrama Youth To Face Trial

PITTSBURGH (UP)—William A. Reynolds, 19, Elrama, Washington County, was ordered held for manslaughter by an Allegheny County coroner's jury Tuesday in the traffic deaths of two women.

Police testified Reynolds' automobile skidded 43 feet before it slammed into another car in McKeesport last June 9, killing Mrs Laura V. Hait, 69, and Mrs. Florence Moritz, 51, both of McKeesport.

The victims were passengers in a car driven by Howard Hait, 37, son of Mrs. Hait. He told the jury Reynolds' auto was traveling "too fast."

Mrs Martha Houston, another passenger in the Hait auto, was so severely injured she was unable to testify.

Westinghouse Buys Test Instruments

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. has purchased 55 newly-designed electronic recording instruments to test the world's first atomic power plant for surface ships, it was announced today.

The instruments, bought from the Instrument Division of Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Co., will help determine the efficiency of the new reactor under construction at Arco, Ida., a spokesman said.

Harrisburg Man To Head Bureau

HARRISBURG (UP)—Donald B. Moore, 34, Harrisburg, was transferred today from his post as administrative officer in the Public Instruction Department to head the Bureau of Purchases in the Property and Supplies Department.

Moore will receive a salary of $10,954. He succeeds Kenneth W. Haldeman, Columbia, who resigned recently.

Thieves Drain House

STAMFORD, Conn. (UP) — Thieves who robbed a house under construction weren't satisfied with taking everything but the kitchen sink. They also took that.

Motor Traffic To Show Increase

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP)—Motor traffic will increase 50 per cent on U. S. highways by 1975 but the traffic accident toll will decrease, Paul Jones, director of public information for the National Safety Council, predicted Monday.

Jones said the council was expecting traffic to increase to 100 million cars, trucks, buses and other vehicles.

He said the death and accident toll was expected to drop because traffic safety will develop faster than traffic volume.

Jones made the prediction at the annual state Kiwanis convention.

Marrying Kind

UP Chief Hopes Red Ban Will Be Lifted

BOSTON (UP)—President F. H. Bartholomew of the United Press said today he was hopeful that United States reporters soon would be admitted to Red China.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Rotary Club here, Bartholomew said:

"I am hopeful in this instance that the current talks between Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Ambassador Wang Ping-nan of Communist China will terminate this ill-advised effort to bottle up news from the most populous part of the world in which we live.

"At least the ambassadors seem to be drawing nearer to the viewpoint consistently held by a majority of the U. S. press."

He said that, generally speaking, the U. S. State Department has been helpful in permitting reporters to seek out the news.

"If we had not fought for this right," Bartholomew said, "we would be as far from having our own reporters in Red China as we ever were, and most likely would have been forced backward to defend ourselves in some new position.

An Interesting Thought

"It is an interesting thought that there are really no fundamental human rights, only those which you are able to defend.

"We consider life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness inalienable rights because for a few centures past we have been able to defend these rights. This is also true of a free press.

"In parts of the world where the people or their representatives have not been able to defend these rights, the rights do not exist. And yet some people accept the idea that the press should be governed with a view to uplifting the people and furthering national interests.

"What's uplift in the East is subversion in the West. And what is reasonable in the North may be inflammatory in the South.

"What cannot be argued is that cold facts and objective reporting have no position. They are the solid rock upon which positions should be built. Without these, positions and attitudes will be built on sand and imperil the whole structure, be it local, national, or international.

Cites U. P. Founding

"We are fighting to see that the American people and the people of the world have the facts upon which to build their conclusions.

"Two years ago (when the State Department barred U. S. reporters from China) I said 'free access to the news outweighs all other considerations, in the long run.' I still say that."

The U.P. president said the U.P. was founded to break up national monopolies of news.

"The U.P. in its half - century fight for freedom from control of the news has never won a complete victory. All we know is that we started the fight, we've got the door partially opened, and we intend to open it wider.

"Most of our individual battles today in the general war are over secrecy and bureaucracy. We fight bureaucracy where it interferes with free access to the news, whether it is Red Chinese or American, or whether it is national or local.

Some Success

"In some cases a plea is made for secrecy on the grounds that publicity may needlessly hurt individuals. This is particularly true in the case of juveniles. In such instances, we feel the discretion should belong to the newspaper, based on good taste and the public interest.

"Organizations of United Press editors through the United States within the past year have had some success in sponsoring legislation to provide access to local records. They are up against the fact that more and more local agencies are trying to hold back information."

Simple Sound Testings

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

HEARING difficulties in an infant may be indicated if he consistently pays no attention to the tinkling of a spoon being tapped against his feeding bottle, the sound of his name being spoken, or to everyday street noises such as fire sirens, auto backfiring and barking dogs.

In older children in the school-age and preschool-age brackets, there are various simple tests you can conduct right in your own home to determine to some extent whether your youngster has any trouble with his hearing.

Clicking two coins together, using the ticking of a watch, whispering, or speaking in normal tones might give you some indication of the degree of difficulty with hearing.

Various Sounds

First, test these various sounds on a person with normal hearing ability. Then, try them on your child. If he can hear these sounds at only one-third the distance a child with normal hearing can, it might be an indication that his hearing loss is significant.

If, however, he hears it at half the distance, the loss of hearing probably is not significant. But this doesn't mean you can forget about it.

Quite the contrary, if any loss of hearing is even suspected, a hearing specialist should be consulted right away. In a great many cases, medical treatment following early discovery of hearing loss will clear up the difficulty entirely.

Another test for older children is the number test.

Have the youngster stand some distance from you with the left side of his head toward you. He should cover his right ear with the palm of his hand. Then have him repeat numbers after you. Next, with his right ear turned toward you and his left ear covered, repeat the procedure.

This should give you some indication whether his hearing ability is the same in both ears.

Al such tests, howebei are makeshift and serve only to bring to light a suspicion of hearing trouble.

Once you suspect difficulty, have the child examined by a competent medical man. By using such instruments as an audiometer, he can measure precisely how much hearing is lost and how much remains at various tone levels.

You know how dangerous it can be to ignore appendicitis. Don't ignore signs of hearing difficulties, either. Deafness might be the result.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

J. A.: Is vitamin B12 of help in treating osteoarthritis?

Answer: Recently it has been shown that, when it is properly used, vitamin B12 in large doses does help certain cases of osteoarthritis.

In Hollywood—

TV Can Make You Famous, Actor Says

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Jack Lemmon, preparing for his new TV show, said today movie stars must jump into the video swim to become really famous.

"Think I'm kidding?" he asks. "Just watch what happens at a premiere.

"Movie stars like Gary Cooper and June Allyson are greeted by cheers and excitement. But let a TV personality like Jeannie Carson—who never made an American picture—show up and the crowd goes nuts.

"Actors don't get enough exposure in movies. I never make more than two films a year—and a guy isn't going to learn anything doing that."

In Minor Leagues?

Lemmon, a Harvard graduate who appeared in some 600 TV shows from 1948 to 1952, will star in eight dramas for the revamped "Four Star Theater" series on NBC.

He is one screen veteran who believes TV will help his career.

"Usually it's the other way around," he explained. "Almost all television actors think they're in the minor leagues unless and until they make a movie. But it's much more difficult for them to make the switch.

"Look at Liberace, George Gobel and Jack Webb. Their movies didn't set the world on fire.

"You've got to keep a balance," Lemmon pointed out.

"Loretta Young and Jane Wyman went all out for television. Now they're dead for pictures. Who wants to pay to see a star in a theater who can be seen for free 39 times a year in the living room?"

Jack Lemmon

Jack says he will escape the TV hex by appearing as a different character in each of his programs—and that he will be making only eight shows.

Touch All Bases

"I have no intention of becoming a TV 'personality.' The public pegs you as a certain type and won't accept you as anything else."

Lemmon, who has his pick (no pun intended) of comedy roles, next will be seen in a dramatic part with Glenn Ford in "Cowboy." This will be followed by "The Mad Ball," a riotous Army epic.

In his fight to escape being typed, the youthful actor is looking for a Broadway play. He also is cutting a record album. He sings and plays piano like an old pro.

"Gotta keep busy," he grinned. "I want to touch all the bases—and then see what happens the next time I go to a premiere!

Japanese Chick on TV Tonight.

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Michiko Hamamura, a Japanese chick who looks like Audrey Hepburn and sings like Harry Belafonte, makes her American TV debut tonight.

Miss Hamamura, who is 19 and has fawn-like eyes, will pitty-pat on to Patti Page's "Big Record" show, a one-hour rumble devoted to all types of music. Miss Hamamura's contribution will be kind of all-types by itself—she'll sing a West Indies work chant, "Banana Boat Song," in Japanese-type English.

It will mark a first for American television.

Doesn't Speak English

"She doesn't understand a word of English," explained her interpreter, Dr. Osamu Mabuchi, who works for a firm connected with RCA Victor in Japan. Miss Hamamura nodded and smiled enthusiastically.

"She learns calypso by listening to Harry Belafonte records. Her interpretations sound very much like his, but she outsells him in Japan," continued Dr. Mabuchi. "She listens to a Belafonte record once—that's all she needs to learn the words. She can learn any song just by hearing it."

Miss Hamamura (Americans in Japan dubbed her Audrey-San because of her resemblance to Audrey-San Hepburn) sold 100,000 Japan, a feat roughly comparable drey-San Hepburn) sold 100,000 copies of "Banana Boat Song" in Japan, a feat roughly comparable to running a four-minute mile in shower clogs.

Miss Hamamura, who was dressed in a tight-type brown dress, a striped sash and sandals, rolled her extraordinary eyes and muttered a few words.

Singing Four Years

"She says she was born in Osaka—Japan's second largest city," said Dr. Mabuchi. "She says she has one younger brother and her father has an iron works in Osaka. She says she has been singing since she was 15. She is very popular in TV and radio in Japan.

"She says she likes America and she likes Patti Page very much. She likes her hotel room which has American television. She doesn't like American food. Except lobster. She says in Japan the old type music is dying out. She has her own TV show in Japan."

Has American Favorites

Miss Hamamura smiled again. "Ed Surrivan," she said.

"She likes Ed Sullivan," said Dr. Mabuchi.

"Nat Caw," said Miss Hamamura.

"She likes Nat Cole," said Dr. Mabuchi.

"Erra Fitzgerah," said Miss Hamamura.

"She likes Ella Fitzgerald," said Dr. Mabuchi.

"Chris Connors," said Miss Hamamura, "Harry Berafonte, Rock 'n' Raw, Dinah Shore..."

"Elvis Presley?" she was asked.

Miss Hamamura held her nose. "Hound dog," she said.

"Yes, she likes him, too," said Dr. Mabuchi. "Her nose itches."

BELGIAN TOWN ENACTS PLAY OF THE HOLY BLOOD — Every five years, two thousand townspeople of Bruges, Belgium, enact the Play of the Holy Blood for 10 performances in the medieval market square, which, with the soaring belfry, is incorporated in the scenery of an immense outdoor stage. These photos were made at this year's showing, with the next presentation set for August, 1962. It was attended by 100,000 persons, with thousands turned away to hear the music and songs from a distance. At left, the play is in progress. At top, right, Anton Van de Velde, director of the play, manipulates his rheostats backstage. Bottom, right, is a closeup of the crowd. The play of the Holy Blood (Sanguis Christi) was begun in 1938 and uses only residents of the town for the cast. When a player masters a role, he continues to play it.

Writing and Publishing Songs Not as Easy as it Often Looks

(The first of three dispatches on the popular music business in America. Today—the songwriter.)

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UP) — The beauty, if that's the word, of the songs we hear today is that many leave us with an "I can write 'em as good as that" feeling.

Yet, when we try to break into the songwriting circle, we find out there's more to it than meets the eye and ear.

Still, Americans go on writing their songs at a rate of about 250,000 a year. Of this number, only about three or four thousand new songs are recorded. And only 50 records, on a yearly average, become big hits. About 150 others score moderately well.

The song publishers estimate that of the 50 big hits, half are written by the professionals and half by the unknowns. This means that out of a quarter-million songs written this year, only 25 unknown songwriters will make the hit parade.

Rewards Are Great

Nevertheless, it's hard to shed the songwriting bug, especially when you consider the money you can make. Here's the ideal breakdown:

Your song sold one-million records and 400,000 copies of sheet music. Your publisher would get two cents per record for north American sales. You'd get one cent a record, or $10,000. The sheet music give you at least three cents a copy, or $12,000. Then you would get half the publisher's revenue for foreign sales, and added to this is revenue from radio and television performances, which brings the total up to $30,000 or more.

Sounds simple, but there are many obstacles in your path.

Publishers, generally, do not like to deal with the out-of-town housewife who sends in a manuscript. Most unsolicited music is bad, they say. Aside from this, the publisher is afraid of plagiarism. He'd rather take his chances with a songwriter he knows.

If you're an unknown amateur, the first person to stay away from is the "song shark," the publisher who wants money for handling your song. The money part of the game is the publisher's business. If he publishes it, he should be prepared to spend a' out $10,000 to promote the song. And he has no guarantee of a hit. Two hit songs a year is great for the average publisher.

Check His Reputation

You can check a publisher's reputation with the Songwriter's Protective Assn.

In this electronic age, most publishers prefer hearing a song on a "demonstration record," or "demo." The amateur should be prepared to spend a few dollars to get a good rendition of his song recorded in a local studio. Sometimes a publisher will record a song independently, distribute it to local stores and radio stations in the hope that a major record company will grab it for national exploitation. This is the "bought master" angle.

To become a professional songwriter, you should start by studying music in school and listening to hit songs. Develop a feeling for people. Know what moves them. Confine your songs to subjects you know about and stay within the 32-bar structure.

Most amateurs make the mistake of trying to start at the top. They try to sell their songs to the biggest people in the business. It's smarter to start from scratch. Write songs for amateur productions in town. Get to know the local disk jockeys. Many hit songs get started on local stations, through privately-recorded renditions. Remember that the major companies are like major league baseball teams. They're always looking around for good material.

Wasted Effort Plentiful

If you make the grade, you'll find yourself trying to turn out three or four songs a week and trying to place eight or 10 with publishers each month in the hope that one or two get recorded. Many of the 7,000 professional songwriters become contract writers; producing words or music, or both, for one publishing house on an exclusive basis.
